EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THURLOW WEED smoked or gave away 80,000 cigars.

DEDICATED to the N. Y. Sun: The Democratic party must go.

HAIL fell four feet deep in some parts of Iowa the other day.

JUDGE FORAKER, the Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio, is a self-made man.

EMORY STORRS predicts that the next Republican ticket will be Arthur and Foster.

NORTHERN philanthopists have given more than $25,000,000 to the south for educational uses since the war.

BALTIMORE wants a big exposition. She could probably buy a second hand one at low figures by applying to Louisville.

DORSEY acknowledges that he can't read. So how can he tell whether the New York Sun's charges are true or not?

MRS. E. D. E. N. SOUTHWORTH began to write for Mr. Bonner when he first took charge of the Ledger, and is still a contributor.

THE Democratic candidate for auditor general is the fortunate possessor of a "barl." Will he tap it as generously as Judge Headly did in Ohio?

KENTUCKY votes down the proposition to improve the State Constitution. That is right, no revised Constitution is needed until the people themselves are revised.

THE Democratic convention complimented the Democratic legislature on its successful efforts in securing economy and reform. Its only exhibition of "economy and reform" was the discharge of a couple of scrubbing women appointed by the Republicans. But perhaps $3,000 a day for doing nothing is regarded as a specimen of "economy and reform."

DORSEY prints another "budget" in Thursday's New York Sun. It is even more worthless than the preceding one. The unsupported affirmation of such an individual should have but little weight, and when intended to cloud the fair memory of the sainted dead is a specimen of sacrilege which should expose its author to arrest and punishment.

THOMAS NAST at forty-three finds the full enjoyment of a life of hard work and success. He lives at Morristown N. J., in a house at the edge of the town, surrounded by groves, lawns, lakes and flower gardens. The interior is richly finished in costly woods inlaid with rare mosaics, and there are bronzes, marbles, tapestries, rugs and relics in bewildering profusion.

A WARNING has been sounded by that excellent authority, the Medical News, to the large cities of the United States. It declares the possibility that if cholera is brought to this country this summer it will not break out as an epidemic until next spring. Therefore it calls attention to the great necessity for cleanliness, good sewage, wholesome drinking water and pure air. This advice is worth heeding.

Kentucky and Utah.

The Democrats have carried Kentucky by a large majority and the Mormons have carried Utah, says the Philadelphia North American. These victories, being coincident, are also of the same kind. Both are Democratic victories. There are no Republicans in Utah, but only Gentiles. The elect are almost to a man Democrats. It will be the fashion for the Democrats to carry Kentucky until the wave of civilization sweeps over that State and renders it possible to hang a white murderer and imprison for a full term a white thief and general pillager. Kentucky is a species of political island around which the civilization of the age surges without making any considerable inroads. Its people, away from the points where the progressive world may be met and rubbed against, are the slaves of the most inveterate prejudices as regards the rest of the inhabited globe. But they are not altogether to blame. The dominating men of Kentucky, with a few notable exceptions, have encouraged that insularity which characterizes the rural Kentuckian.

It would not be possible to prove to the masses in that State that any other people were further advanced in all that goes to render society an overcoming force. They believe that they have the best land, the finest horses, the handsomest women and the most polished gentlemen on the face of the earth. Their geese are all swans, and their dunghill fowls are all birds of Paradise. The blood feuds which wipe out entire families and fill the State with violence are by them regarded as attributes of a high state of civilization. There is only one unpardonable sin recognized in Kentucky, and that is the sin of voting the Republican ticket. A people so sodden with conceit and prejudice cannot vote any other than the Democratic ticket. Even in old times a Whig was not much better than an outlaw. It is almost impossible to punish a murderer there, unless it happen to be on the border where the reflected light of a higher civilization falls and produces an effect. The political machine exists there in its greatest vigor and effectiveness. The succession is determined by not to exceed half a hundred men, and it is determined in a line which falls within the few reigning families. Outside of that line there is no preferment to high places.

Kentucky is governed by a closer corporation than exists in any monarchical country of Europe, save Russia, and possibly Austria. But the elect there have wide liberty apart from the ballot. They can slay right and left with none to make them give an account of their proceedings. If a Kentuckian has an enemy, he slays him. Of course the slayer is almost certain to be slain, but not by process of law. The Governors of Kentucky have an overwhelming capacity for forgiveness, but none has developed so enormous a capacity for that as the present Executive. He signalized his ascension to the office by a general jail delivery. The courts during his term have committed a goodly number of persons to the penitentiary, but generally they have found a pardon in the hands of the jailor. Of course the Democrats can carry Kentucky every time.

And they can carry Utah every time. There was never an effort to put down polygamy there that the Democrats did not resist it. Abolish polygamy and you abolish the Democratic ascendency there. There was a time when the snake might have been scotched, at least. That was when General Johnston was near Salt Lake City in 1857. Mr. Buchanan could have strangled Mormonism then had he been a free agent. But the Mormons were the advocates of slavery, and the oligarchy interposed to save them.

THE New York Sun is a dude among newspapers.

A Decided Collapse.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat says: The zeal of the New York Sun in following up the cry: "Turn the rascals out," has led it into a decidedly humiliating position. It conceived the phrase to be one of those potent campaign cries which would be popularly caught up and insure Democratic success. But it fell dead as soon as uttered and the subsequent persistent efforts to galvanize it into life have been palpably futile. It is very exasperating work to kick against the air. The most tremendous attempt which was made by the Sun to fasten corruption on the Republican party was the use made of Dorsey. Statements were alleged to have been obtained from him which, if believed, would be of a damaging character. They were published with a great flourish of trumpets and sent out to the world as true as gospel. But as soon as he learns specifically about them Mr. Dorsey comes to the front and denies part of them, claims that he has been misrepresented in in some, and gives a feeble support of others. The Sun is literally hoisted by its own petard, though the impression it made before it was thus dumbfounded did not amount to much.

The only material point in which Dorsey gives the Sun credit for telling the truth is where it represents him as saying that Garfield entered into a compact with Jay Gould, to appoint a man to the supreme bench who would be friendly to certain railroad claims in which the latter was interested. If this was true it was a clear case of corruption. Gould was to give $50,000 to the Republican campaign fund, and Garfield was to appoint Stanley Matthews an Associate Justice. The Sun represented Dorsey as asserting that an agreementment to this effect was made in writing. Mr. Dorsey denies that there was any written pledge; and, moreover, only "thinks" that a verbal arrangement was entered upon. This is a very essential modification of the original statement. At the time the alleged agreement was made the vacancy on the Supreme bench which Matthews was subsequently appointed to fill did not exist. It was not until Justice Swayne resigned that President Hayes nominated Matthews, the Presidential term expiring while the name of the appointee was before the Senate. Under the circumstances the renewal of the nomination was no more than an act of courtesy to Hayes and of justice to Matthews, as at the time he was under fire, and certain unsustained charges against him in process of investigation.

The reason why Gould subscribed to the campaign fund, if he did so, is not far to seek. It was the same that induced many clear-headed Democrats interested in financial matters to give to the Republican cause. Democratic success threatened to destroy confidence in the economic world and destroy values. Gould and others had large amounts of property at stake. The charges which Dorsey makes against his persecutors MacVeagh and James, come very naturally from such a source, and the language used sufficiently denotes the spirit that inspired them. The Sun has repeatedly laid stress on the alleged fact that Dorsey was in the possession of documents which would when brought to light, completely paralyze the country with evidence of Republican corruption. Dorsey says that he has no such documents, and that there are none in existence. The Democratic Presidential campaign starts out very early, but it starts out very badly. Exit Dorsey. Next.

MR. JEFFERSON DAVIS has for rather more than twenty years occupied a position in American history second to none—not even second to that assigned to Benedict Arnold. The latter had a better case against the Continental Congress than the former had against the United States. Mr. Davis has improved his standing in history in a pettish reply to some strictures ventured by Judge Jeremiah S. Black upon the course of Mr. Davis and his fellow-conspirators just prior to the civil war.

THE suicide of Mr. Barca, the Spanish minister, which was at first ascribed to the pressure of financial embarrassments caused by high living in Washington, has moved some of our contemporaries to moralize quite impressively on the extravagance of Washington society. In their opinion the social habits of the Capital are of the most lavish and wasteful kind, so that people of moderate income cannot hold any social position without ruining themselves or stealing. This is a great mistake. In fact, the social tone of Washington is very simple, unpretending and unexacting compared with that of New York. There is infinitely less "style" and display there than in the great Metropolis. Although a large income will, of course, give certain advantages, there is probably no large city in the United States in which money, for its own sake, counts for as little as it does in Washington. In the circles which are called "the best," a good many gentlemen and ladies are moving who are known to be comparatively poor, and who are unembarrassed in their social relations by the scantiness of their means. The steady influx of wealthy people from all parts of the country who spend their winters in Washington, may be calculated to change this gradually, but the change is at any rate slow. As things are at present, an income which would scarcely be called "respectable" in New York will go a great way in Washington, and it is a well known fact that many foreign diplomats prefer this post, for a time at least, for the very reason that it enables them to live modestly and to save money.

IT is evident that Mount Vesuvius had a part in the appalling destruction of life and property on the island of Ischia a few days ago. For more than a month the volcano has belched forth threats, and the fact that shortly before the earthquake of 1828 in Cassamicciola, and again in 1881, Vesuvius was in eruption, creates the belief that there is submarine and subterranean connection between that smoking mountain of lava and Mount Epomea, across the Bay of Naples. It is an ominous fact that the great volcano has not been relieved by the great outbreak which filled Ischia with thousands of the dead, and the increasing violence of its eruption forebodes disaster to the inhabitants of all the Neapolitan districts. The charm of life in the dreamy isle would be dispelled by the dread disaster for almost any other class of inhabitants than the light hearted mortals who have found it possible to exist there almost without exertion, that even if it were demonstrated that the fires of Vesuvius burn beneath their feet, the surviving population would probably cling to their homes. For centuries Vesuvius has found multitudes for destruction in its moods of frenzy, and there is no prospect that the terrified inhabitants will fly beyond the limit of its power.

ACCORDING to Berlin dispatches, the health of Prince Bismarck demands his complete seclusion and repose. Europe will hear this with a grateful sigh of relief. The permanent seclusion of this restless, ambitious political boss is the only chance that the old world has for an interval of rest. So long as he is around the political kitchen, he must have his spoon in and help to stir every pudding that is being made.

THE governor of Kentucky has pardoned the defaulting State Treasurer, but the reasons for this clemency are not mentioned.

THE peanut crop is short, only about two and a half million bushels. A little thing like that would be easy to corner.

ABOUT 20,000 people are left on the Island of Ischia, and liberal contributions for their relief will be needed.

IT is now nearly five years since the board of European control, as it is termed, took hold of the disordered affairs of Egypt, and Mr. Gladstone announced in the house of commons Tuesday that the withdrawal of British troops from Egyptian soil is not soon to be expected. In 1879 the luxurious Ismail had established an army of 50,000 men and his lavish expenditures made terrible exactions upon the wretched population of Egypt. Although the control immediately reduced the army to about one third its former size, the revolt to which it drove Arabi in 1882 not only devastated Egyptian cities, but imposed upon the people a war debt of $250,000,000. The pestilence of 1883 has been second only to the war of 1882 in the impoverishment of the Egyptians, and they may well regard the domination of Europe as a curse. But Mr. Gladstone encourages them with the hope of better times, and in the establishment of a permanent government he sees the beginning of abiding prosperity for that unhappy country. The continuance of the supervision of its affairs by England until a stable government is set in operation is the best fortune that can happen to Egypt.

A REPORT comes from San Francisco that J. C. Flood, one of the "bonanza kings" of that city, is about to build a palace that will cost seven millions of dollars when finished. The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger say that "the contracts, specifications, etc., are already signed, and the work, it is understood, will commence at once. Fifth avenue and Murray Hill structures, including the Vanderbilt and Stewart mansions, will be the merest huts compared with it, and there is nothing even in "Nob Row"—the Fifth avenue of the Pacific Coast—which will be worth mentioning along side of it. There are few kings or emperors in the Old World that can beat this magnificence. Every room in this new Aladdin's palace is to be frescoed by artists imported from Italy for the purpose, and the picture gallery will be adorned by not a few of the masterpieces of European collections. All this is part product of the Comstock mines, and tells, in brief, a tale quite as wonderful as any in the 'Arabian Nights.'".

WE heartily sympathize with the telegraph operators in the unsuccessful result of their strike. We wish it had been different. But such movements can never effect the results desired until there is thorough organization. So long as there is the possibility of the places of strikers being supplied by other skilled or unskilled workmen it is useless to begin a strike. We fail to see why workmen will not cooperate more generally than they do to secure their just and inalienable rights. Physical suffering is preferable for even a long period to submission to the tyranny of corporate power. Never strike again until you know you can succeed, for failure only establishes still stronger the power of despotism by which you are controlled.

SLUGGER SULLIVAN, Boston's leading citizen, has opened a rum mill in that city which cost $20,000 to fix up, and when he opened it there was such a rush of leading Bostonians to sample his bug juice that the police had hard work in preventing them from trampling each other to death. Great is Sullivan, the Boston bummer.

THE Governor on last Wednesday signed the Judicial Apportionment bill recently passed by the Legislature and it has become a law. Centre and Huntingdon counties now comprise the new (25th) judicial district. The change, with Judge Orvis as President Judge, is eminently satisfactory.

GENERAL NOTES.

Georgia has 15,000 Masons.

Over £1,093,989 worth of ostrich feathers were exported last year from the Cape.

A Passion Play is to be produced next summer at Emerald, a village near San Francisco.

A Vermont villager has his walk and front yard paved with headstones from a cemetery.

A firm of vinegar makers in London entertained 100 men at dinner in their 52,000-gallon vat.

The Georgia boy who was in swimming and tried to see whether a revolver would go off under water killed his companion.

The registered debt of Berlin is about 17,000,000 marks, on which the surplus profits of the gas works pays the entire interest.

The fact comes out that the greater part of the Duchess of Edinburg's trousseau was sold a few years ago as the "property of a lady of rank."

The divorced Senator Fair, now abroad, is down for another marriage. The bride is to be the daughter of Prof. Dare, a London expert at telegraphy.

The famous Canonchet is still held by Gov. Sprague, although he is not living there, and all the household goods have been removed, leaving the house vacant.

A new secret society is to be formed at Yale, a rival to the Skull and Crossbones and the Scroll and Keys. It is said that a building for its use is to be at once erected.

Emperor William's favorite war horse, Ganger, which had to be killed recently, has been stuffed, and is to be reproduced in bronze in an equestrian statue of the Emperor.

The breach of court etiquette which permitted a fair American belle who had not been presented to be present at the last state ball has stirred a tumult in London's high circles. The Queen is angry.

The wood pavement is to be given up in London. It has not only failed to realize the promised advantages, but it has led, according to Professor Tyndall's report, to serious affections of the eyes and lungs.

An Illinois family named Hicks recently went crazy, and were about to nail one of the children to a wooden cross, when the neighbors prevented the crucifixion. The entire family are in confinement.

On the railroads of England and Wales there were in 1881 about 2263 inhabitants for every locomotive, as against 2697 in 1871, and there were 1017 inhabitants for every passenger car, as compared with 1232 in 1871.

The ostrich farm near Anaheim, Cal., has proved a success. Some $600 worth of feathers have already been picked, and sixty $100 eggs are hatching in the incubator. Dr. Prothero has gone to Africa to bring 125 more birds.

The Countess de la Torre pleaded that, being member of the anti-cruelty society, she took eighteen cats and nine dogs into her house out of compassion but a London Justice fined her $1 and ordered abatement of the nuisance.

There is an Oxford graduate in the poor-house at Newburyport, Mass., and he gives what is called "a very eloquent and critical lecture on English poetry, making judicious selections and showing wonderful knowledge."

The Sacramento authorities are in a muddle over the gambling question. They are unable to prevent the vice, and, although willing to, are afraid to authorize and license the games, as such action would conflict with the State laws.

German law courts are not ever polite to the fair sex. A lady witness in a Strasburg court, who had sworn to the ownership of only twenty-six summers, when, in reality, she was the happy possessor of twice that number, was indicted for perjury.

The most spiteful man in the word has committed suicide in Lower Silesia. He left a letter stating that his purpose was to deprive his heirs of thirty thalers which they would receive from a benevolent society in case his death were natural.

A traveler came across a grim relic on a Wyoming prairie recently. There was a ring of stones, three feet in diameter, arranged as a breastwork. Outside the circle were the skeletons of two Indians, and inside lay the bones of a Caucasian.

Captain Boynton once thought of going through the Niagara rapids in his rubber suit; but he numbered several railroad ties and sent them through. When they were recovered below the whirlpool and Boynton saw their scars, he packed up his rubber suits and left Niagara.

Cutler, Me., is a new seashore resort that is fast coming into prominence. Four ladies from Ohio, representing a company recently formed in that State, have purchased fifty acres of land, and intend to erect summer cottages. Mr. Scars, of Boston, is preparing to build a hotel.

The Duke of Westminster, in a recent speech, declared that the London smoke was injurious to health, while it represented a waste in the city alone of £1,000,000 a year. Its effect on public buildings was destructive, and it cost £2500 a year to repair its damage to the Houses of Parliament.

Walt Whiteman says that Americans, impressed by New England writers and schoolmasters, tacitly abandon themselves to the notion that the United States have been fashioned from the British Islands only, and essentially form a second England, which he regards as a very great mistake.

Two feeble old women, the last descendants of Amercus Vespucius, have petitioned the Italian Government for a pension of sixty paoli—about $6—a month, an allowance made by the Republic of Florence in 1690. The last male member of the family, named Amerie, died seven years ago.

A writer in the Providence Journal clearly proves that Samuel J. Tilden, Jay Gould and Cyrus W. Field owe their misfortunes and present wretchedness to the fact that they kept their stock and let trains run on Sunday, when William E. Dodge sold out at the top figure for the same reason.

REVERSES.

The rose that blooms the purest
Has need of summer shower;
The oak that stands the surest
Has felt the tempest's power.

The gold that shines the fairest
The furnace fire must feel;
The gem of luster rarest
Has known the cruel steel.

The feet that stand the strongest
Have trod temptation's path;
The heart that bears the longest
Has known affliction's wrath.

And not on fields successive
Gleams Truth's triumphant form;
The cause that is progressive
Reels oft before the storm.

This principle unerring
Through all creation runs,
Framed by the arm untiring
That guides the starry sun.

Yet to that soul possessing
Unwavering trust in right,
Defeat is but a blessing—
The rod, a scepter bright.

For, by reverses chastened
We plainer see our needs,
Our onward march is hastened
We rise to greater deeds.

Until from heights supernal,
A grander view we gain;
And bless the "Great Eternal"
For what we counted pain.

LOVE-LORN.

In her cage by my window swings a bird,
A beautiful bird with golden wing,
And all day long, by a memory stirred,
In a faint little treble she tries to sing.

I list to the twitter, so soft and low,
To the quavering trill that breaks in vain;
The silver song she recalls I know—
The song she tries to repeat in vain.

'O Bird, my Bird, you never were meant,
To warble songs for the world to hear!
You were made for the stillness of shy content,
And the quiet round of a homely sphere."

—Margaret Sangster.

See
The
Bee
Flee
Across the lea
To deck
The small boy's neck
With a lump
The size of the nozzle of a pump.
Hear the boy shout,
What is it all about?
Why, the bee has got in its work,
Or rather its dirk,
And the boy indulges not in laughter.
Hereafter
He will probably think it best
Not to shy a brick into a bee's nest.—Puck.

—In the days of Miss Muffet, when she sat on a tuffet
And digested her curd and whey,
A great live spider did sit down beside her
And frightened Miss Muffet away.
It is now just the same with the more modern dame,
When the real "daddy-long-legs" appear;
But a spider of tin on her dress she will pin,
And parade it around without fear.

Our Story Teller.

Set With Thorns.

Rose Gurney came slowly down the broad path, and pausing before an old-fashioned red-rose bush, began to select with dainty fingers some partly opened buds which she fastened with deliberation in the knot of lace at her bosom.

A broad straw hat, with a scarf of white muslin shaded her features; and her morning robe of white lawn daintily ruffled and draped in spotless purity, the little nosegay of roses being the only bit of color about her.

Philip Grantley, smoking his morning cigar under one of the big elms, stepped forward, tossing the fragrant weed aside, and doffing his straw hat.

He was a fine looking fellow, with waving jet black hair and bold gray eyes; and when you find such a combination—black hair and gray eyes, you will generally find a will as indomitable and immovable as a pyramid.

'How do you do, Cousin Rose?" he said.

The young lady surveyed him with great calmness, quite ignorant of his extended hand.

"I suppose you are Mr. Grantley," she said with the slightest possible bend of her head; "but I am not aware of any existing relationship between us."

"No? Then I am not," rejoined the young man, philosophically, as he dropped his neglected hand into the pocket of his loose flannel coat.

She looked at him with some perplexity now, but his face was inscrutable.

"May I have a rose, Miss Gurney?" he asked with great politeness, his eyes fixed upon the little cluster at her bosom.

"Oh, certainly! Help yourself!" with a little graceful gesture towards the blossom laden bush.

But he only glanced upon it with a smile and turned away as the breakfast bell rung out an imperative summons from the house.

"You will come in to breakfast?" said Rose, with a stiffness not at all natural to her.

"How very kind you are," murmured Philip, languidly, as he sauntered along by her side.

"Papa, how can you expect me to marry that man?" cried Rose, an hour later as she joined her father in the library.

"Is he not agreeable to you, my dear?" queried Papa Gurney, a shade of anxiety drifting over his handsome face.

"Agreeable? why, papa, he is the most—insufferable man I ever saw! Such coolness, and such insolent grand seignor ways. Why, I would not marry him if he were the last man on the face of the earth."

"Well, well, Rosamundi, there's no compulsion about it." And Mr. Gurney smothered a sigh. "But I had hoped you might fancy each other; the boy's father was an old friend of mine. At least you can treat him courteously while he stays with us. He is our guest, remember."

Rose left the room silently, with compressed lips. "Treat him courteously, indeed!" Conventional courtesy seemed utterly lost on this young fellow, who made himself so entirely at home, who was discomposed at nothing.

In the days that followed Philip was like the girl's shadow, waiting upon her with the most scrupulous attention, yet not hesitating to criticise her playing, her singing and her riding. Rose quarreled with him unconsciously. As for Philip, he was as imperturbable as mortal man could be.

After all he could be a most delightful companion when he chose. Rose realized this when on rainy days he read exquisitely bits of her favorite authors, while she busied herself at sewing or when in the long scented twilight he related strange adventures in far away countries.

There had not been the slightest word of love between them; therefore it was a good deal of a surprise when Philip, lingering with her over the piano one lovely summer night, said suddenly:

"Rose, will you be my wife?"

With her heart in her mouth, and angry astonishment in her wide open eyes, Rose answered directly, "No, sir!"

Philip did not seem to take her refusal much to heart. He drummed out a little opera snatch rather absently on the white keys, and presently went out on the lawn for a smoke; while Rose, very much disturbed, ran up to her room and came down no more that night.

The next day Mr. Gurney was stricken down with paralysis.

He was quite conscious, but as helpless as a little child, with no control of hands or tongue.

The attempt at speech, the wistful entreaty of his large eyes, wrung the heart of poor little Rose, who was sure that he desired to communicate something to her.

When Philip came to the bedside, that same dumb, passionate beseeching glance went to him. The young man seemed to understand it.

He bent over the stricken man quietly, and said, with his hands upon the poor helpless hands on the spread:

"I know what you wish to say, my dear friend. Do not be troubled—everything is right. Be comforted.

Tears gathered in the old man's eyes, and he motioned Rose and the house-keeper from the room. They could hear his voice low and steady and soothing; and when they returned Philip went away, but the anxious, eager, expression was gone from Mr. Gurney's eyes; and when, after, Rose questioned Philip concerning her father's uneasiness, she got no satisfaction.

It was then, in the days of her sorrow, that the girl learned the real nobility and gentleness of Philip Grantley's heart. Never was there such an unwearying nurse as he.

He took all troublesome duties upon himself. Rose gladly gave the reins of government into his steady hands.

Rose thought with a dreadful heart-sinking of his departure.

She broached the subject one day.

"Mr. Grantley," she said, "I feel that it is selfish in us to lean so thoroughly upon you. We must learn to do without you. Some time again if you will visit us when papa is better—"

Her voice broke here; everything in the future looked so hopeless, and she knew herself to be young and inexperienced.

He was watching her attentively with very gray eyes; and when she paused he took her hand and drew her unresistingly in the circle of his arm.

"Rose, do you want me to go away?"

She shook her head. She dared not trust herself to speak.

"Rose, I will not attempt to disguise from you the fact that your father will never again be well. Sometime, perhaps months hence, he may regain the power of his speech. But, Rose, he will be an invalid always; and I am going to ask of you to let me share with you the care of him. He is dear to me, and I suit him. Rose, my dear little red Rose, I want you for my own; we need each other—don't you see? Can't you love me a little?"

She was weeping wildly in his arms now, and he waited for her to grow calmer, and then led her to the sick room.

Mr. Gurney listened, with such unmistakable rapture and assent in his eyes to the old man's story, that Rose could not doubt what the desire of his heart had been.

They were married very quietly a few weeks later; and then a few words from Mrs. Barton, the housekeeper, opened Rose's eyes.

"So you are not going to leave the old place after all, Miss Rose?"

"Leave the Hall? What do you mean, Mrs. Barton?"

"Then Mr. Grantley has not told you!"

"Told me what?"

"Miss Rose, just before your father's illness, he had decided to sell the old house, as he had met with heavy losses. Mr. Grantley bought the place of him in order that it might not go into the market. He has probably been keeping this from you in order to save your feelings; and I must say, Miss Rose—" with the respectful freedom of an old servant—"you have got one of the kindest-hearted gentlemen in the country."

Rose went silently in search of her husband. When she found him in the library her face was very pale, and her eyes very big.

"Philip," she said, "I have just learned that this house belongs to you."

"What's mine is yours, my dear; and what's yours is—"

But Rose had thrown herself upon his breast and was crying heartily.

"Philip! How rude, and unkind, and ungenerous I have been to you, who are so noble!"

"Softly, little one! You are always my red Rose; a little thorny, perhaps, but that is the nature of roses."

Weather Lore.

Higher barometer means that the mercury is rising and lower barometer that is is falling.

Higher pressure is synonymous with higher barometer, and lower pressure with lower barometer. In case of a higher barometer, it indicates a colder and contracting atmosphere and consequently a diminution of moisture.

A lower barometer indicates an expanding atmosphere with greater capacity for holding moisture.

In case of rising barometer, it indicates a decrease of moisture and diminishes the liability of rain.

A falling barometer indicates an increased amount of moisture and greater liability for rain, and with it we have an increase of cloudiness.

When the barometer rises in cloudy weather, it is generally an indication that the clouds will break and be followed by fair weather.

A sudden change in the barometer, either rising or falling, is a fair indication of approaching high winds.

At sunset, if the sun goes down behind a cloud or is obscured by a bank of clouds with a falling barometer, rain will fall in nineteen cases out of twenty on the succeeding day. If the sun be obscured at its setting by clouds, with a rising barometer and cooler winds, the chances are nineteen out of twenty that no rain will fall on the succeeding day.

There are three fair weather sunsets—the red, yellow and green. Green and red are exceptional, the green more so than the red.

It will seldom happen that we will have a rainfall on a day succeeding one on which any one of the three above colors is dominant at sunset the day before. It occasionally happens, however, that rain will fall when no indications whatever on the day before would lead one to expect it.

About Hands.

Hands are divided into three different kinds—those with round-pointed fingers, those with square tips, and those that are spade-shaped, with pods of flesh on each side of the nail. The first type, with round-pointed fingers, belongs to characters with perceptions extra sensitive, to very pious people, to contemplative minds, to the impulsive, and to all poets and artists who have ideality as a prominent trait. The second type—those that are square-shaped—belong to scientific people, to sensible, self-contained characters, and to the class of professional men who are neither visionary nor altogether sordid. The third type—those that are spade-shaped, with pods of flesh at the sides of the nail—indicate people whose interests and instincts are mostly material, people who have a genius for business, and who have high appreciation for everything that pertains to bodily use and comfort. Each finger, no matter what kind of a hand it is, has a joint representing each of these types. The division of the finger that is nearest the palm stands for the body, the middle division represents mind, and the highest joint spirit of soul. If the top joint is longer than the other, it denotes a character with too much imagination, great ideality, and of leaning toward the theoretical rather than the practical. When the middle joint of the finger is long it promises a logical, calculating mind—a very common-sense kind of a person; and when the lowest joint is longest, it indicates a nature that clings more to the luxurious than to the refinements of life; a mind that looks for utility before beauty. If they are nearly alike, and especially if the joint of the fingers equal the length of the palm, it indicates a well balanced mind.

A Lawyer Caught.

A young lawyer tells a story about himself which is good enough to go on record. He was trying a "rum case" not long ago, when a witness was put in the box to testify to the reputation of the place in question. This witness, a stage driver, in answer to a query as to the reputation of the place, replied: "A rum shop." The lawyer inquired, "You say it has the reputation of being a rum shop?" "Yes, sir." "Whom did you ever hear say that it was a rum shop?" The witness didn't recollect of any one he had heard say so. "What!" said the lawyer, "you have sworn this place has the reputation of being a rum shop, and yet you cannot tell of any one you ever heard say so?" The witness was staggered for a moment—in the words of the lawyer, "I had him!" and the lawyer was feeling triumphant, when the witness gathered himself together and quietly remarked, addressing the lawyer: "Well, you have the reputation of being a clever lawyer, but I never heard any one say so."

A San Francisco girl is hunting in vain for a young man who has eyes like sapphires. She says that they are the only kind she admires, and when she can find such a man she will marry him. She is worth $2,000,000.

A Prosperous City in Minnesota.

J. WILLARD MILLER WRITES ABOUT DULUTH AND SEVERAL OTHER CITIES IN THE GREAT NORTH-WEST.

DULUTH MINN., Aug 1, 1883.

EDITOR OF THE REPUBLICAN:—Before leaving my friends at Bellefonte many requested me to write, giving a description of the country where my new home was to be. After looking about industriously I can say it is a land of magnificent distances. The people think as little of "stepping over to Fargo," Dak., as people of Howard do of a visit to Bellefonte, yet Fargo is 280 miles away. Winnipeg is over 400 miles, yet the trip from Bellefonte to Lock Haven seems relatively about the same.

All the people who came here over a year ago are "old" residents. They grow old exceedingly fast. One year will build a town and three months will witness the beginning of a swift decay. Winnipeg might be given as one example of an overgrown town. In the winter of 1881-2 the people there went mad over its miraculous future. If one intimated that Main street frontages in that place were not cheap at one hundred dollars per inch, he was denounced as a traitor and traducer. In the days of the boom a man might own a quarter section which cost him $1,000 and cut it up into a hundred blocks and offer these blocks at $1,000 each. Of course he would sell a few at such figures. The world would hear that John Jones had offered William Smith $100,000 for a property which Smith had bought a few weeks before for $1,000. Mr. Smith would be reckoned among the curbstone brokers as the possessor of a bank account worth at least $100,000. But this period of lunacy passed off, a reaction set in and Winnipeg is bankrupt. These millionaires "in their minds," can't pay their grocery bills, let alone their taxes in many cases to-day. The reaction is as abnormal as was the boom. Winnipeg to-day has all the wealth it had two years ago. True there is hardly enough money there to meet the every day requirements, yet substantial buildings and good properties are there in great number. These fine properties are being forced on the market and sold far below their real worth. Parties who buy them now will do well on their investment as Winnipeg is the capital, and the immense lumber districts of Hudson's Bay and a large agricultural country are tributary to it. Its population is 30,000. Several towns near here give abundant statements why they must inevitably become metropolitan cities, and many a man pays dearly for his whistle in buying what he has never seen. Not so, however, with a Boston man with whom I took tea a few evenings since. Several years ago he bought a lot here and last Friday he reached Duluth to see where his lot was. He found it on second street, near a church, and worth $2,000. Yet he paid pretty well for it when he bought for $650. Real estate business is not booming here just now, although houses are going up at the rate of two a day. It is claimed that the town has grown from 8,000 two years ago, to 16,000 now. However, I should say 12,000 is a fair estimate of its population. Many eastern men have been operating large lumber mills here for two or three years; yet they hesitated to sell their eastern homes and bring their families, until this spring. Prominent among these are Messrs. David E. Little, W. G. Peck and A. E. Rood, all members of the Board of Managers of the Y. M. C. A. They feel assured that the new and prominent industries springing up warrant their action. Their reasons for this assumption may be found in these facts. Duluth is a natural centre of commerce. It has the first harbor on Lake Superior and is at the extreme western end of navigation. The western Pacific railroad, which began selling through tickets to Oregon last month, has large docks here and their wheat elevators of over 2,000,000 bushels capacity give storage for wheat brought by that road to be shipped hence by water to Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, Erie, Buffalo and eastern ports. The St. Paul and Duluth road terminates here and does a large busines. The Duluth and Iron Range, 100 miles long, to tap the iron regions is being rapidly built and trains will run before winter sets in. The Duluth and Winnipeg is a road yet on paper, but $250,000 have been already spent on grading. The St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba road runs freight here, yet compared with the lumber business these interests are small. Small streams which empty into Lake Superior on the west and north shores contribute their timber floats to this place. Some lumber companies own tugs which are kept busy during the season of navigation, April 15 to Dec. 1, in bringing lyg booms from points all along these shores. Lumber is sold cheap this summer and builders are taking advantage of it.

General merchandise business is good and prices are stiff. One firm of two young men has made $40,000 in dry goods and notions during the last four years.

Agriculture amounts to nothing right here. However, the Red river and St. Louis river valleys and some of the richest agricultural districts of the world begin west of here about one hundred miles. Government land may be secured along the northern Pacific at a small cost and that company is offering land at from three to eight dollars per acre. Further west many are taking "tree claims." The pine lands here become an immense source of revenue and now the proprietor of one of the leading daily papers of Duluth is under government arrest for frauds in pine land.

Before closing, I must add briefly, that I am well pleased with this new and wild country. Its undeveloped resources when required, will give it luxury and affluence. Why, the gold and silver mine just opening within a mile of where I am writing, paid its young operator $4.65 per ton on first assay, and like all western towns, this one is destined to be all that Knott sarcastically said it was. An explanation of Proctor Knott's ground and results of his speech might be made, but your space and my time forbid.

J. WILLARD MILLER.

Cities and Mountains of Switzerland.

TENTH LETTER.

GRAND HOTEL, VEVEY, SWITZERLAND, July 23, 1883.

Since we left Interlaken we have visited the most interesting parts of Switzerland. We came directly to Geneva, and a more attractive and interesting city we have not seen. It is situated at the south end of Lake Geneva, and is divided by the river Rhone which emerges from the lake, at this point, with the swiftness of an arrrow and of immense volume. The deep blue color of the lake and the swift flowing Rhone are indescribably charming. The two harbors of the city are connected by eight substantial and handsome bridges, and you may imagine the picturesque promenades along the lake and the river, and over the bridges.

From Geneva to Chamouix is a distance of 50 miles, which we made by diligence (6 horses) in order to see Mont Blanc, and its passes, peaks, and glaciers. Chamouix is visited by many tourists on account of the commanding view it affords of this monarch of European mountains which rises to the height of 15,731 feet. The day was rainy but before we reached Chamouix it cleared up and the sun shone brightly, and we saw Mont Blanc and the glaciers in all their glory.

We reached Chamouix early in the afternoon and immediately started to walk to the Glacier des Bossons, which we soon reached. We crossed the solid mass of ice and viewed with wonder and amazement the immense pyramids of beautiful blue ice. Towering over our heads were numerous peaks covered with snow and ice and away down in the valley below us the Swiss peasants were busy making hay. The view was grand and sublime and worth the trip to Switzerland. The montanvert is visited on account of the view it affords of the "sea of ice" which fills the gorges of Mont Blanc and which descends even down into the valley of Chamany in the form of a huge stream of ice—10 miles long and ½ mile broad. The upper part of this "sea of ice" is called the Met de Glace, the lower part Glacier des Bois. Beautiful cascades are quite numerous and the eye never wearies in profound admiration. We took a carriage from Chamouix to Mertiguy and we had splendid views of several glaciers and of Mont Blanc. Anyone fond of the awfully grand and sublime can enjoy a complete surfeit by taking this carriage drive, and what increases the interest and excitement is the fact that it is certainly more or less dangerous. The road winds up and around stupendous precipices and is frequently hewn out of the solid rock and only wide enough for the carriage and horses, and but a few inches intervening between the wheels of the carriage and the fearful precipice. We enjoyed this visit to Mont Blanc exceedingly, but are thankful that we are safely back again We are resting at Vevey, situated on the northeast side of Lake Geneva. It is one of the most charming summer resorts in Switzerland and affords a fine view of the lake and the beautiful mountains, many of which are snow clad.

T. R. HAYES.

What it Looks Like.

The Allentown Item has interviewed an army worm captured near that city, and thus describes it: "The worm is about an inch long, of a slate color, and looks like a dark grub of the caterpillar species. Its body is covered with a rough coating of bristly hair, which protects it to a great extent from the wild birds, though the harder throated hens eat it with a relish. Its eyes are plainly visible, and from its head projects feelers. The fore part of the body is furnished with four legs, while the hind part has but two. Its motion is something between a walk and a crawl, and it gets over the ground at an astonishing rate. Its appetite seems never to be satisfied. Unlike the potato bug, they care nothing for the succulent root on which the latter feeds, and confine their ravages to grass, timothy, tobacco, corn, and wheat also in season. The tomato does not tempt them, nor do they seem to relish the grains of corn. Were the season a little further advanced this crop would be safe from them, but unfortunately it is late this year, and they devour the young leaves ravenously. Fortunately, they came too late to damage the wheat and rye, but, more fortunately still, they usually complete their larval development within the month of July, and then go into the ground to pupate and issue forth shortly after a month."

Prof. Rudolph Virchow, one of the most eminent surgeons in Germany, got a box of pills from an apothecary, was cured of his sickness, and wrote a note stating the fact. Thereupon his medical society censured him. He has published a card saying that he can no longer "belong to a society that arrogates to itself the right of an arbitrary and offensive criticism."

A Noteworthy Incident.

At the recent anniversary of The American Sunday School Union at Hartford, General Joseph R. Hawley of Connecticut, was the presiding officer, and General A. H. Colquitt of Georgia, one of the principal speakers. The first meeting of these two men was twenty years ago, when their brigades stood over against each other on the battle field of Olustee in Florida. Their next meeting was a peaceful one at the Centennial celebration. And now again at Hartford they were on the common Christian platform of the American Sunday School Union. During the fifty-nine years of its history the Society has been sustained by ardent friends of Christian and patriotic character in all sections of the Union—east, west, north and south.

Through the liberality of a friend, the society offers a premium of one thousand dollars for the best book written on the obligations and advantages of the day of rest, the MSS. to be submitted on or before October 1, 1884. R. C.

In connection with this noteworthy incident, it is a noteworthy fact that these two Christian soldiers sit side by side in the United States Senate, and it is a cause for general rejoicing that such men are in positions of influence and power in the service of our common country and of our common Christianity.

It Pays to Keep the Sabbath.

From the Railway Age.

The two months which have passed since President Young issued an order forbidding the running of Sunday trains, except those carrying mail, on the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad, have been the most prosperous of any in the history of the road. President Young recently telegraphed: "Our June business has been larger than ever before, and the aggregate earnings the largest on record." While the experience of one railroad for two months is by no means conclusive of the question at issue, yet it certainly tends to refute the position taken by so many managers that a single railroad or a portion of the railroads of the country cannot afford to cease Sunday work, and that Sunday observance is not practicable unless all railroads unite in it. The Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad has discontinued Sunday triffic, and has increased its business, and there is no indication that its earnings for May and June are $1 less than they would have been if its employes had been worked seven days in each week.

Rumored Change of Stock Yards.

The Johnstown Tribune of Monday gives the following news, which may interest a number of our citizens: Among the largest stock yards in the country is the one located at East Liberty. For many years it has been the centre of operations for all kinds of stock dealers in a wide range of country. The transactions are enormous, and the prompt dispatch of business requires the employment of large capital and many men. This yard, it is now stated, will, in the near future, be removed from its present location to a point at or near Bolivar station, the eastern terminus of the West Penn extension. It is given as a reason for this move that all western stock not destined for Pittsburg or its immediate vicinity will be shipped eastward over the West Penn division, and that Bolivar will in consequence be the natural distributing point. Several railroad men were interrogated concerning the matter, but they declined to say anything further than that the change mentioned is being talked about in official railroad circles.

Legal Advice.

A lawyer named Strong practiced in a township "out west," and a prisoner being arraigned for theft who had no counsel, the court appointed Mr. Strong to that service, directing him to confer with the prisoner, and give him the best advice he could in the circumstances. He retired with his client to an adjacent room for consulation, and, when an officer was sent to inform them that the court was waiting, Strong was found alone and returned with the officer into the court room. "Where is your client?" demanded the judge. "He has left the place," replied the lawyer. "Left the place!" cried the judge. "What do you mean, Mr. Strong?" "Why, your honor directed me to give him the best advice I could in the circumstances. He told me he was guilty, and so I opened the window and advised him to jump out and run. He took my advice, as in duty bound, and by this time he is more than two miles off."

A Railroad Contractor Shot Dead.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 6.—Last night John F. Moss, a wealthy distiller at Port Royal, a hamlet on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, forty miles from this city, shot and killed John McGrogan, a railroad contractor. Moss was arrested, and is in jail. He claims that McGrogan had a practice of getting drunk and coming to his house. On this occasion he used vile and indecent language. Moss ordered him away, and he refused to go. The shot was fired after the victim had struck Moss.

"What'll poor mother do?" were the only words uttered by a Boston newsboy after being mortally wounded by a railroad train. A passenger had offered him half a dollar for a certain paper, and he was trying to hastily get it at a station when the accident occurred.

Large Crops in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Iowa., Aug. 7.—The wheat yield is the largest known in this section for years. It was well headed stood heavy, and was free from rust. Some farmers near Norwalk, who have threshed, say that it will average twenty to twenty-five bushels to the acre. One field of winter wheat will make thirty bushels to the acre without any doubt. The oats crop is also as good as has ever been known. The fear which for a long time was entertained by farmers as to corn has gradually been dispelled. After the early summer rain the corn was small, and it was with difficulty that the rows could be distinguished from the weeds. Since that time the weeds have been cleared out, and now the corn is much higher than a man's head and has begun tasseling. The stalk are large and healthy, and many will bear two large ears. If the weather from now to maturity is favorable it will make from seventy to eighty bushels to the acre. The above will apply to all parts of Iowa north of the Rock Island railroad.

Killed by a Policeman.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—Another fatal shooting by a policeman occurred here last night. While Policeman Godfrey was walking his beat in the neighborhood of Washington and Twenty-third streets he saw three men acting in a suspicious manner, and when he attempted to arrest them they broke and ran. Godfrey started in pursuit, and to intimidate them, as he claims, he fired three shots after them, one of which entered the back of Wm. Snyder, passed through his body, and he was taken to the hospital and died today. This is the second killing by a policeman within a week. The man killed is known to the police as a hard character, and his two companions belong to a gang of sneak thieves.

War Material for China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 7.—Last Thursday five hundred cases of ammunition and arms were sent on the Pacific mail steamship Comstock. The ammunition cases had the brand "United States government, 45 caliber," and all cases were from Springfield, Mass. It is now asserted that during the past fifteen months regular shipments of an extensive scale have been made to C. Schmidt, Shanghai. During that period 25,000 Springfield rifles and 250,000 cartridges have been forwarded, besides from 500 to 800 bales of cotton duck, suitable for tents, by express, by each steamer for China. The total value of the war material approximates $500,000.

Attempt to Poison a Family.

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 6.—A. L. Lynn and his wife on Saturday became intoxicated, and had a difficulty with the family of August Poyck. The Lynns were arrested and committed on a charge of surety of the peace. This morning, they were served with a warrant charging them with having put nearly a pound of Paris green in a cistern from which Poyck, his wife, and eight children were in the habit of drawing water for drinking purposes. The poison was discovered on Saturday after the arrest, upon information given by a neighbor.

The Election in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 6.—Returns from the State come in very slowly. Those received indicate a light vote, with no decrease in the Democratic comparative majority so far as heard from. Counties usually electing Democratic legislators do so to-day, while the Republicans hold their own in the counties generally carried by them. Knott, for Governor, will have about 45,000 majority, this statement being based on returns now in and a comparison of the vote of the same counties two years ago.

A Case that Puzzled the Whole Faculty.

Mrs. Milo Ingram gave the names of some of the most reputable physicians in the two cities (Pittsburg and Allegheny), to whom she had paid large sums of money for treatment, but she rapidly grew worse. She was then taken to the most reputable physicians and surgeons of New York, but with no better success. They had all pronounced it cancer, and declared she must die. The flesh of her breast was eaten away down to her ribs; the breast bone was laid bare and the disease made its way upwards, causing the breast to become detached from the wall of the chest, hanging loose from above. See page 25 of Dr. Hartman's "Ills of Life," how Peruna cured her. They are given away by druggists, gratis.

COURT PROCLAMATION.—Whereas, the Hon. Charles A. Mayer, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the 25th judicial district, consisting of the Counties of Centre, Clinton and Clearfield, and the Hon. J. G. Larimer and the Hon. J. K. Runkle, Associate Judges in Centre county, having issued their precept, bearing date the 28th of July, A. D., 1883, to me directed, for holding a court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery and Quarter Sessions of the peace in Bellefonte, for the County of Centre, and to commence on the fourth Monday of Aug. next, being the 27th day of August, 1883, and to continue two weeks, notice is hereby given to the Coroner, Justices of the Peace, Aldermen and Constables of said County of Centre, that they be then and there in their proper persons, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, with their records, inquisitions, examinations, and their own remembrances, to do those things which to their office appertains to be done, and those who are bound in recognizances to prosecute against the prisoners that are or shall be in the jail of Centre county, be then and there to prosecute against them as shall be just.
Given under my hand, at Bellefonte, the 20th day of July, in the year of our Lord, 1883, and in the one hundred and seventh year of the independence of the United States.
THOMAS J. DUNKEL,
July28tf Sheriff.

FORT WASHAKIE, Wyoming, Aug. 9.—The presidential party have spent the day at Fort Washakie, preparatory to setting out upon their ride to the Yellowstone in the morning, the president, Secretary Lincoln and General Sheridan returning a call which the officers of the post had made upon them the previous evening. In accordance with the expressed wish of the Shoshones and one of the Arapahoe chiefs, their people were afforded an opportunity of calling upon the president at three o'clock in the afternoon. Shortly before that hour they gathered on the plains to the number of about 500 warriors, mounted upon their handsome ponies. They dashed forward in line for about a thousand yards to a point near which the president stood awaiting them. The column then halted and several of the chiefs dismounted and approached him. Among them were Washakie, the remarkable chief of the Shoshones, from whom this post takes its name and Black Coal Chief, of the Arapahoe, a tribe which, within a few years, has been permitted to share the occupancy of this reservation. The president then addressed the visitors for calling on him and complimented them on their fine appearance.

The Oldest Inhabitant cut Down.

SCRANTON, Aug. 9.—Mrs. Mary Lynch, who died in this city to-day at the age of 110 years, is supposed to be the oldest person in the United States of whose age there was an exact record. Born in Sussex county, New Jersey, in March, 1774, her father, Jacob Barsich, served in the revolution, and her husband, James Lynch, to whom she was married in 1800, served in the war of 1812. Her parents were among the early German settlers of New Jersey. Mrs. Lynch and family moved to Pennsylvania in 1830. She was the mother of eight children, four of whom are living, the youngest being 75 years of age. Her health to within a few days had always been excellent, and her faculties seemed unimpaired to the last.

The Striking Operators.

CHARLESTON, August 9.—The telegraphers strike in this city ended today, the eight striking operators becoming convinced that the movement in the south at least was about to collapse. All resumed work without conditions as to salary. The Charleston office has now prescribed the same force as before the strike began. The five substitutes temporarily employed here have been provided with places elsewhere by the company.

The President's Trip.

CAMP ROLLINS, W. T., Aug. 10, via Fort Washakie, Aug. 9.—After the Indian dance yesterday at the camp near Fort Washakie Captain Hayes, commanding troop G of the Fifth cavalry, gave the president an exhibition drill, the commands being given by trumpets. The drill included the ordinary manoeuvres by the troops, formation and skirmishing both on horseback and on foot, and ended with a charge. Just after this two hundred and fifty mounted Indians, Shoshones and Arapahoes, gave a sham battle exhibition, showing the manoeuvres executed by them in actual warfare. Their horsemanship was surprising, nearly every one riding bareback. At 7 o'clock sharp this morning the president and party broke camp and started on horseback with the escort and pack mules following, crossing the Little Mud river near Fort Washakie, and then passing over a rough and broken country, with no water, for a distance of nine miles, stopping for a short time on top of the divide, where a fine view of the Crow Heart butte and the Bull and Mud rivers and the Shoshone mountains was obtained. From this point the party passed over a very rocky country, climbing and descending alternately high and stony hills until they reached the camp, which is situated on the Bull Lake fork of the Wind river, a distance from the camp of the morning of twenty-one miles. The party are all well and enjoyed the ride greatly. The president proves to be a good horseman, and came into camp like an old campaigner. Immediately after the arrival of the party at the camp, which is on a beautiful trout stream, the president took his rod and soon killed the first trout, keeping up his old reputation of a fine fisherman. He enjoys camp life very much and is up and out of his tent at 5 o'clock each morning, usually the first one, and with a flannel shirt and a large hat enjoys it with the rest. Senator Rollins, having distinguished himself in the horsemanship in this march of twenty-one miles, General Sheridan, out of a compliment to him, named our first camp "Rollins," which honor was thoroughly approved of by the whole party.

Accident at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 9.—About noon to-day a frightful and painful accident occurred at the steel works of Hussey, Howe & Co., on Seventeenth street, which resulted in the death of one man, the probably fatal injury of another, and less severe injury to three more. At the hour named a number of men were engaged in helping to take stock in one of the warehouses, a one-story iron-clad building, which adjoins the melting house, and in the prosecution of this work were removing and weighing bars of steel of assorted sizes which were stored in wooden racks. While thus occupied, from some cause not clear at present, one of the racks suddenly gave way, and, falling against others, carried them and their contents with it, and all fell with a terrific crash against the end of the warehouse facing the Allegheny Valley railroad tracks. Five of the men, named Dan Lawrence, Fist Fied Stack, John Gingre, Julius Woolensky, Charles Ashwin and Robert Sherretts were knocked down and buried under the enormous weight of steel bars, which fell in every direction. They made a fortunate escape, as none of them suffered more severe injuries than bad bruises and cuts, and after being attended to by Drs. Kearns and Duncan, who were quickly at the scene of the accident, were conveyed to their homes. But Ashwin and Sherretts were not so fortunate. Both were standing in about the centre of the building when the crash came, and both were crushed beneath an enormous weight of steel, Ashwin being killed and Sherretts so badly crushed that his injuries may prove fatal.

An Underground Electric Company Incorporated.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Joseph B. Ecclesine, Jr., William S. Taylor and H. Stevenson Beattie, of this city, and William H. Johnston, of Philadelphia, have filed in the County Clerk's office a certificate of incorporation of the New York Sectional Electric Underground Company. The proposed capital stock of the company is $2,500,000. At the offices, at 15 Courtland street it was said to-day that permission to open the streets for the laying of the wires had not been obtained, but it was thought that it could be had without any great trouble. It was also said that the company preferred to say nothing of its plans for the present.

Celebrating Luther's Entry into Erfurt.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—The festival at Erfurt in celebration of Martin Luther's entry into that town was a great success. A historical procession traversed the streets of Erfurt this afternoon and excited much admiration, especially a group in which Luther was represented surrounded by armed knights. Bodies of singers greeted the procession at different points along the route.

An Adirondack Guide Drowned.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Joseph L. Newell, the well-known Adirondack Mountain guide, was drowned yesterday near Paul Smith's, in the Adirondacks, by the upsetting of a boat. It is supposed he was attacked with heart disease. He had been guiding A. E. Douglass, of New York, who fell into the pond when the boat upset, but swam ashore.

Great Fire at Vineyard Haven.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 12.—A fire broke out in the harness manufactory of R. W. Crocker, in Vineyard Haven, last night and destroyed a large number of cottages, mostly belonging to summer residents. Owing to a brisk northeast gale the flames quickly swept through the village to the westward. There being no fire apparatus in the town assistance was summoned by telephone. Nearly the entire population of that place hastened to the scene. The burned section begins at Jenkin's paint shop, on the east side of Main street, and extends southward to and including the Mansion house. The officers of the cottage city have organized a force to protect the goods with which the streets and vacant lots are full. Numerous thieves from localities in the harbor came on shore and boldly attempted to carry away goods. Several arrests have been made of persons caught making off with clothing, etc. The territory burned over embraces about fifty acres of the heart of the village. The loss cannot be accurately estimated. It is thought that it will probably fall a little short of $200,000. It strikes almost a death's blow to this ancient village. It leaves hundreds of people homeless, many of whom are thrown upon the charity of their neighbors.

A Great Day in Stonington.

STONINGTON, Aug. 10.—The quiet streets of Stonington were crowded to-day, and the sleepy old town celebrated with a gusto the anniversary of the battle which made this pretty New England seaport famous sixty-nine years ago. The firing of cannon and ringing of bells awakened the town long before the break of day, and until midnight the celebration went on without interruption. A big procession was formed after the fire companies had been inspected in the morning, and a dozen veterans of the War of 1812, with half a hundred men and women who witnessed the Stonington bombardment, marched through the shady streets attended by the military and fire companies, not of Stonington alone, but of all the towns and villages round about. Visitors were present from all over the State, and many guests came from New York. More than five thousand strangers were in town, and the parade, a half mile long, went through a double line of enthusiastic sightseers. After travelling the streets, a halt was made at the town square, where Courtland Palmer of New York, as orator of the day, made a patriotic address, relating many anecdotes of the great Stonington fight as he had heard them told by his grandfather, one of the old defenders. When Mr. Palmer's speech was ended the parade was begun again, this time to an orchard, where tables were spread in the open air, loaded down with tempting edibles and attended by Stonington's rosy-cheeked lasses.

F. Shaw & Brothers' Failure.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 10.—The Boston counsel of F. Shaw & Brothers brought suit to-day for $50,000 damages against the Sheriff of Penobscot county for the injury done to their business by an attachment on the working materials of the Kingman tannery, and the consequent shutting down of the tannery. This tannery is the second largest in the world. It comprises 500 vats, and on an average 150 hides are in each vat in process of tanning. A similar suit will be brought against the Sheriff of Aroostook county because of attachments on the firm's tanneries at Houlton and Bancroft.

The Striking Operators.

NEW YORK, August 10.—The telegraphers at the meeting of the executive committee of the Brotherhood this evening stated that at 6 p. m. to-day one hundred and fifty operators on the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis railroad went out on a strike, leaving but two at work. A dispatch from Chicago states that only nine men out of five hundred have gone back to work. Encouraging reports from Boston, Baltimore, Washington and other points were read. It was acknowledged that fifty men had gone back to work to-day for the Western Union company in this city.

Fire in Franklin County.

MERCERSBURG, Pa., Aug. 8.—The large bank barn on the old Johnston farm, one mile northwest of this town, at present owned by Mr. Jacob Frick and occupied by John Filkill, was totally destroyed by fire on Monday night, with wagon sheds, corn cribs, etc., together with two valuable colts, separator, mower, reaper, etc., and the entire crop of wheat, oats, and hay. Insured for $3,400 on crops, stock, etc., in Watertown Insurance Company, and for $1,000 on barn, in Clover Creek Company. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A Wedding in a Grove.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 8.—Miss Katie Shug, daughter of Frederick Shug, Deputy United States Marshal of this city, was married at 4 p. m. to-day to Mr. Edwards A. Fisher of Liverpool, in a beautiful grove on the shores of Seneca River. This evening the grove was illuminated, and there was a dance.

Checking Cholera at the Golden Gate.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—As it is feared an introduction of cholera from China and Japan might occur, the Board of Health has adopted a resolution that all Asiatic ports be declared infected and all vessels arriving at this port be quarantined until a full examination is made.

The Ironworkers.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—Nearly all of the committees of the Amalgamated iron and steel association have concluded their work, but the result of their deliberations will not be known till Monday. The most rigid secrecy in regard to the proceedings is still observed. The committee entrusted with the discussion of the president's report, among other matters considered, has attested its unqualified approval of several points in Jarrett's annual address to the convention on Wednesday touching the tariff question.

A Storm out West.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 12.—A heavy thunder storm prevailed here yesterday. Three boys named Robert Miller and William Miller, brothers, and Ernest Smith, who had taken refuge under a tree, were struck and instantly killed by lightning. Several houses were struck and four persons were injured. The telephone exchange was set on fire but the flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

—One of the most serious accidents that has yet occurred on the Snow Shoe branch of the Pennsylvania railroad took place at a point between Benjamin Walker's residence and the stone quarry Monday morning. We are told that the switch was turned into the quarry throwing the engine and one lumber car off the track. The locomotive turned on its side and is slightly damaged. The engineer, Mr. William Temple, who, by the way, has been in so many similar accidents that all of them cannot be enumerated, jumped from the engine and fell, painfully injuring his left arm. The train, which should have arrived at 6.40 a. m., did not put in appearance until 9 o'clock. We are glad to learn that Engineer Temple escaped with slight injuries, as it was at first reported that he had been seriously hurt. Who turned that switch, that's the question? If he is discovered he will probably be presented with a free ticket to the penitentiary.

—The usual meeting of the borough council was held on Monday evening, August 6. The Market committee reported $11.35 market fees from July 17 to August 4. Mr. Dunkle, contractor for Spring creek bridge abutments, sent estimate for July work at $401.55. The Water committee offered quite an elaborate report, showing that a thorough investigation of the quantity of water consumed had been made and a more equitable assessment would be the result. The expenses about the Water Works have been reduced, notably in the item of coal $1 per day, due largely to decresse in price.

—A large party of foreigners, including men and women, accompanied by three bears, two ponies, a monkey and one or two infants gave a street exhibition at noon Thursday which elicited much laughter and applause from the curious crowd. They also succeeded in gathering in quite a quantity of loose change. Newton S. Bailey, tried to mount one of the bears, but was hugged so lovingly by Bruin that he was glad to retreat.

—In some sections of the State potato bugs have failed to put in appearance this summer.—Philipsburg Journal.

Well, never mind, Bair; don't grieve over it. Perhaps a cyclone or a big drought will come along yet and stir things up.

—Bellefonte was unusually agitated on Thursday afternoon. The departure of the military and the lime kiln accident afforded almost too much for people to see and talk about in a perfectly satisfactory and intelligent manner.

—The hours for work in the railroad shops in Altoona have been reduced from 10 to 9 a day.

Two Deaths.

We are exceedingly pained to announce the death, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Hutchison, on Spring st., Monday morning, of Mrs. Frances Hewes, mother of Mr. Charles Hewes, of this place. She had been ill only a few days and sank rapidly and peacefully into the slumber of death. The funeral will take place from Mrs. Hutchison's residence at 8 a. m. to-day. Interment at Sprucetown cemetery. The mourning relatives have our earnest sympathy.

On Saturday afternoon a four year-old son of W. H. and Dora Williams of Port Matilda, died after a brief illness. The funeral occurred at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, the interment being made in the Presbyterian graveyard at that place. Be comforted, for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

—Judge John Irwin was so unfortunate as to lose a valuable horse by death on Tuesday of last week. He had been driving the animal out the Lewistown pike and was returning when he noticed that it was ill. On reaching the stable in town medicine was administered, but did not seem to relieve the horse, and a messenger was dispatched to the drug store for a further supply of the same medicine. While the messenger was gone old John (for that was its name) died and went where we suppose all good horses go. The faithful animal was about twenty years of age and for the last ten years had been in the possession of Judge Irwin. It was an excellent traveller and in youth had shown great speed, being able to distance all competitors in this vicinity. Of a mild and docile disposition, it could be driven by the youngest child, and would never frighten at that grim terror of horseflesh, the railroad locomotive. Therefore, it is not surprising if some of old John's friends shed tears at his death, even if he was but a dumb brute.

—The Altoona Sun, in its account of the Altoona-New York ball game played in that city on the 6th makes the astonishing statement that an error of Fisher in the second inning gave the New Yorkers five runs. We would like very much to have the Sun man tell us what sort of an error that was. Five runs scored on one man's error is, we venture to say, an feat one doesn't often see on the ball field.

A Contest Between the Eureka and Milesburg Nines—An Interesting Game and Laughable Incidents.

On Saturday afternoon at one o'clock the Eureka base ball nine went to Milesburg to engage the best nine that place could produce in a friendly contest. Arriving in that place, the two clubs were soon opposing each other on the very large and level grounds in the southern end of the town. The game, from beginning to end, was intensely interesting and was witnessed by a large number of spectators, including several Bellefonte gentlemen. When the News reporter arrived the fourth inning was in progress and the score then stood 7 to 2 in favor of Bellefonte. Hughes was pitcher for the Eurekas and although the Milesburgers found it difficult at first to strike his balls they soon learned to do so with considerable ease. The 7 to 2 score was tied in the fourth inning, the Milesburgers doing some remarkable execution at the bat. They are heavier and older men than the Eurekas and their batting was much stronger, although they lack skill and are not familar with the rules and points of the game. During the 4th and 5th innings the Eurekas batted several beautiful flies which the Milesburgers caught almost without one miss. Once when a Milesburg man batted a ball over the fence he was allowed to run on it against the first decision of the umpire, Mr. John Elliot, of McConnellsville. When a Eureka man did the same it was of course, permitted to pass and allowed two or three men to score. After that such balls were decided to be "dead balls," which was appropriate as they usually alighted in the cemetery close by. On the second occasion fully five minutes were consumed in hunting for the ball and if the News reporter hadn't gone to help they would doubtless have been hunting yet. The ball seemed to be quite unlucky, for a few minutes after a foul sent it whizzing into a garden to the left of the grounds. Several Eurekas vaulted over the fence to get the ball, but they were met by a fierce elderly lady with a broomstick and made an ignominious retreat without the ball. This caused some merriment and the ball players and spectators assembled to watch the progress of events. But nothing would induce the old lady to allow a single man to advance within the sacred precincts of the garden. Fortunately, another ball was obtained and the game proceeded although Will Curtin remained to reason with and exhort the irate lady. But even his eloquence failed to secure it.

At this juncture a change was made by the Eurekas substituting Garrett for Orbison and Harris as catcher. Garrett is a remarkable fine catcher, never allowing even the hottest balls to pass him. The solid sphere seems to fall into his hands as into a bed of down, His catches were loudly applauded. but he remained as cool as a cucumber. While catching he put eight men out and during the progress of the game was so fortunate as to serve eleven men in the same way by his individual efforts. With Garrett as catcher Hughes' fine pitching showed to excellent advantage.

In the Milesburg nine Boileau as pitcher did some excellent work and McGinley, 1st base, played without an error. As fielders we think the Milesburgers demonstrated their superiority. But nothing could withstand Garrett's catching and Hughes' pitching and during the concluding innings the Eurekas were able to increase their score rapidly. The game closed after the 9th inning with a score of 19 to 9 in favor of the Eurekas. Below we publish the score:

NOTES.

The News' reporter is indebted to Dr. R. L. Dartt for the pleasure of a ride to and from the base ball grounds. The Doctor is pleasant company and his horse is one of the fastest and handsomest on the road.

Among the prominent Bellefonters who witnessed the game were D. S. Keller and A. O. Furst, Esqs., Revs. Jno. Hewitt and J. P. Hughes and Dr. R. L. Dartt.

The umpire, Mr. John Elliott, was impartial in his decisions, which were approved by all.

Among the crack players in the Milesburg nine are Boileau, Gray, Cramer and McGinley,

A return game will be played soon, but we think that with Hughes in the pitcher's box and Garrett behind the bat the Eurekas are invincible.

Wonder if A. O. Furst, Esq. secured that ball. Last seen of him he was remonstrating with the pugnacious lady and the constable was hovering dangerously near.

However, Will Curtin says he will get the ball if such a thing is possible. Wish him success.

Our Ball Nine.

An effort is being made to organize a representative base ball nine in Bellefonte, but without much success. In view of the fact that there is plenty of material hereabouts to select from little difficulty should be encountered in organizing a good nine. Owing to the lack of interest in the game among our old players it might be difficult to get a club together that would stand much of a show with the professional teams; but we can certainly organize one that would furnish rare sport to our citizens occasionally during the balance of the season. We have been looking around a little on the quiet and believe the following named gentlemen would make up a rattling team: John Wagner, pitcher. We saw John pitch a boy off the bank steps the other day, and believe he's the man for the pitcher's box, and besides he is built for a base ball runner.

George Whippo, catcher. George has a grip like a lobster, and has a tremendous reach of the arm.

Frank Blair, 1st base. Frank has a sharp eye which would be of great service to him in measuring the velocity of hot balls, and we imagine he would be handy with the ash.

Col. Hastings, 2nd base. It may not be generally known, but the Colonel has been there before, and knows how to spread himself when the batsman pops a fly in his direction.

J. Irwin Hagerman, 3d base. This gentleman possesses the very desirable quality of calmness on all occasions and nothing short of a hot liner in the stomach would disturb his equilibrium.

Jesse Klinger, short stop. Jesse would probably not be much of a hand at stealing bases, but it would take a very wicked grounder to get past him on the field.

For fielders we would put in Dr. Kirk (it might be handy to have a doctor on the ground), W. R. Teller and Clem. Dale, all active men, and hard hitters. And then, too, just think of their chances on a running fly catch.

This is the News man's crack nine, and who says it wouldn't be a terror to the professional ball tossers? In our opinion, "she's a daisy," and if it strikes the community favorably a subscription will be opened for the purpose of uniforming the boys and sending them into the field.

A Correction.

EDITOR DAILY NEWS—Dear Sir: I noticed in the Watchman of Friday an article under the head of "Colored Base Ballists of Bellefonte," stating that there would be a game of ball played between two nines, the "Giants and the Leans," at the picnic next Thursday, August 16. I would just say that the picnic we propose to hold is the regular annual picnic of the A. M. E. Sunday-school, and to avoid false impressions I will add that we have no organized base ball club among the colored citizens of Bellefonte, and if there is to be any ball playing on that date it will be between the teachers and Sunday-school pupils. M.

—Captain J. Frank Yealy, of Camp Breeze, visited DuBois, Clearfield county, last week for the purpose of organizing a camp of Sons of Veterans in that place. He was successful in doing so, the new camp being named Moulthrop Camp, No. 23. It began with a membership of fifteen and with the election of the following list of officers: A. Moulthrop, captain; M. H. Kirk, 1st lieutenant; Martin Shovestull, 2d lieutenant; G. L. Griffin, chaplain; L. S. Bell, quartermaster sergeant; F. S. Kirk, orderly sergeant; William Calligan, color sergeant; C. C. Simmers, sergeant of guard; I. L. Hendrics, corporal of guard.

—Williamsport's latest sensation is an elopement in high life. J. O. Parker, Esq., who occupied a prominent place among the very creme de la creme of Williamsport society, has deserted a beautiful, accomplished and high-bred wife and a son twelve years old, and has fled to Europe with Miss Harriet Tremaine, a pretty young lady of twenty years, who was also considered highly respectable. It is rumored that he took with him $40,000 belonging to other parties.

Niagara Falls and Watkins Glen.

The excursion to Niagara Falls and Watkins Glen on the 21st inst. promises to be a grand success. The rates offered are extremely low, only $7.20 for railroad fare from Bellefonte. Tickets good for ten days, and the small sum of $15.20 for all expenses for a three days trip, including railroad fare, hotel bill at Watkins Glen, admission to the Glen, dinner on steamboat between Watkins and Geneva, hotel bill at Niagara Falls, admission to all places of interest and carriage hire, with the privilege of reduced rates for parties desiring to remain at Watkins or Niagara Falls for a longer time. Parties desiring can arrange for their own entertainment. The accommodations for this excursion will be ample and of first class order. None but first class coaches will be run and any one desiring a seat in parlor car can be accommodated. Remember the train leaves Bellefonte at 10 a. m., August 21. Purchase tickets at your earliest convenience.

—A game of base ball was played on Friday afternoon, on the planing mill commons preparatory to going to Milesburg on the following day. The game was well contested throughout, and the score was kept down pretty well. Skean made the best score on the one side, making three base hits and three runs. Hughes' score was the best on the other side, viz: three runs and two base hits. The score by innings was as follows:

Harris' side	0	3	0	4	0	2	—9
Shenton's side	1	0	2	0	0	5	—8

—The men who were injured in the lime kiln accident on Thursday afternoon were both doing well next morning although they felt even greater pain from their numerous bruises than they did the fistt day. Oberti Giusepe was able to eat quite a hearty breakfast.

Opinion of Dr. Mott, late Government Chemist, on Allcock's Porous Plaster.

My investigation of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER shows it to contain valuable and essential ingredients not found in any other plaster. These ingredients are so perfectly proportioned that the Allcock's Porous Plaster will not cause blisters or excessive irritation, and I find it superior to and more efficient than any other plaster.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Situation of the Strike.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 7.—The order for the railroad telegraph operators to quit their instrument. to-day seems to have been more productive of conflicting statements than anything else as far as the Pittsburg division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad is concerned. Superintendent King declares that none of the operators have struck. The strikers claim that the whole number of operators engaged between this city and Cumberland, Md., forty-five persons in all, have gone out. The truth is between these statement, it is certain that some have obeyed the order of the brotherhood, but the number of these has not been sufficient to retard business. One of the non-union operators, who is working in the Western Union office in this city, was assaulted by two strikers to-day but inflicted more serious injuries than he received.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 7.—The officials at the main office of the Baltimore and Ohio telegraph company make the following statement: All operators at Camden station quit work today. Not one remained. They have heard from nearly every station along the line of the road and the number striking and leaving their posts does not exceed half a dozen, and their places have been supplied. The strike at Camden station, they say, is of no serious moment, as the main office at Baltimore and Calvert streets can be used for all work at Camden station.

NEW YORK, August 6.—The United States senate committees on labor and education, met this morning and adjourned till the 13th inst. They intended to begin an investigation into the present telegraph strike, but witnesses, among whom were John Campbell, John Mitchell, Eugene O'Connor and other leaders of the strike, could not attend, owing to additional duties devolving upon them, in consequence of the ordering out of railroad operators, and postponement was requested on this account.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—It is reported here that the telegraph operators on the Shenandoah Valley road struck this afternoon.

BUFFALO, Aug. 6.—Most of the operators employed on this division of the Lackawanna road struck at noon to-day. The company was considerably inconvenienced, but all trains were able to run as usual. It is said that 85 out of 100 operators joined the strikers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Last night another onslaught was made upon the wires of the Western Union telegraph company, the consequences of which are far more disastrous than that of the preceding night. Press Agent Somerville, of the Western Union, said this morning twenty wires were cut on one route, and fourteen on another, between Passaic and Elizabethport, N. J. These were wires to Philadelphia and other points in the southern division. Twenty of the Mutual Union wires are cut between King's Bridge and Scarsdale. At Tarrytown twelve Hudson river wires are down, and eighteen wires in eastern circuits are destroyed between Port Chester and Greenwich, Conn. The cross-arms sawed off in the latter instance, and wires cut besides. The first wires to go down were those on the eastern circuit, which were lost about 11.30 o'clock last night.

Others went down shortly after midnight. A large force of linemen were sent out to repair the damage, and the lines are being repaired as fast as possible. The cutting of the wires interfered with others across which they fell, so that the greatest confusion was created. For a long time this morning, said Mr. Somerville, work was greatly delayed.

Superintendent Humstone estimated that when work was begun this morning one-half of the wires to Philadelphia, one-quarter of those to the west, and one-third of the eastern circuits could not be used. The whole number of wires cut is ninety-seven, but nearly two hundred are rendered useless in consequence. A telegram from Fort Washington says a gang of men had interfered with linemen who were repairing the wires there, and police protection has been asked in case the interference is repeated.

The Broken Vermont Bank.

ST. ALBANS, Aug. 7.—The effect of the Barlow failure is to depress business affairs here to-day. The result of the investigation of the affairs of the bank by the examiner will not be known until to-night or to-morcow. President Brainard, of the trust company, says that the depositors will not lose much, but the latter are not so hopeful. The trust company's last statement showed 2,100 depositors, with deposits of $600,000. Several railroad men, including Governor Fairbanks, held a conference to-day at Barlow's residence. The statement that the Comptroller approved of the bank's loan to the Southeastern Railroad was incorrect. The Comptroller said it was too large and suggested its reduction. The First National Bank expected and prepared for a run this morning, but none took place.

Two Children Quarrel.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Christian Cordes and George Meyer, 10-year-old boys, quarreled in Brooklyn today and Cordes stabbed Meyer in the side with a knife inflicting a serious wound.

Notes from Foreign Lands.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 6.—Seven persons, most of them Europeans, died here yesterday from cholera.

BEYROUE, Aug. 6.—A sentinel at Lazaretto here has been attacked with cholera.

MADRID, Aug. 6.—An outbreak among the Spanish troops is reported from Portugal. It occurred in the city of Badajose, the capital of the province of the same name. The garrison of the town, numbering seven hundred men, have pronounced for a republic, the constitution of 1869 and Ruiz Zorilla for president. The troops and people fraternize. Several regiments of soldiers have been dispatched to Badajose to suppress the rising.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 6.—One hundred and ten British soldiers have died from cholera in Egypt since the outbreak of the disease.

DUBLIN, Aug. 6.—Michael Davitt received an ovation from the population of Kilkee, county Clare, yesterday. In a speech he said the government were reduced to such weakness that they could not protect the life of one of their vilest instruments.

NAPLES, Aug. 6.—A child which was buried in the ruins at Casamicciola at the time of the earthquake on the 28th ult. was rescued alive last Saturday.

The Pope has decided to make the archbishop of Naples a cardinal, as a mark of recognition of services he rendered to the sufferers by the earthquake.

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—The German admiralty have ordered the commanders of men-of-war to limit their supplies of American pork to what is necessary for the sustenance of the crew during the passage home of the vessels from foreign stations. The object of the order is to avoid the landing of any such pork at German ports.

Iron and Steel Workers.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—The Amalgamated iron and steel workers' convention resumed its deliberations this morning. The entire session was occupied with a number of unimportant resolutions. One of these limited the time of speech-making.

Mr. Jarrett says his reason for declining re-election is not owing to ill-health, but strictly on account of his private interests.

A proposition was brought up this afternoon by J. W. Jellison, of Armstrong county, Pa., to extend the funds to the support of the strikers in the Bethlehem iron works to $50,000. Twenty-five thousand dollars was sent last night to the men who are on a strike at Bethlehem. A motion was made to draw on the surplus fund of $375,000 for any amount that is needed to sustain the Bethlehem strike, which is regarded as the most important one in the country. Andrew Lee, of Philadelphia, contended that $50,000 was too large a sum and moved to reduce it to $45,000, but Jellison's motion to make the order $50,000 was sustained. It was agreed to send the Bethlehem men $100,000 a week if necessary. The association boasts of a fund on hand of $1,000,000 to support any strikers in the country. The proposition to idemnify the Amalgamated association with the Federation of Trades in the United States was laid over for the present. It will be discussed at the latter end of the week.

Egypt's Plague.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Thirteen deaths from cholera occurred at Alexandria yesterday.

The native officials here are much blamed concerning the condition of patients. It has been discovered, despite strenuous denials, that there have been in four days 32 deaths from cholera there, while the number of inmates was but 270. The English doctors, on becoming aware of the condition of affairs at the institution, endeavored to remedy it, but even yesterday the place was in a filthy condition, and a number of the bodies of the victims lying beside persons suffering from the disease.

Appointments by the Governor.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 7.—Governor Pattison to-day sent a number of nominations to the Senate, but owing to the absence of a large number of Senators none of them were confirmed. Following is a list of the appointment: W. Hayes Grier, of Columbia, to be Superintendent of Public Printing; T. J. Smiley, Crawford county, to be a Trustee of the Warren Lunatic Hospital; John Gray, Westmoreland county, to be member of the Fish Commission, vice Robert Dalzell, resigned.

The Garfield Monument at the Golden Gate.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 5.—It has been decided to make the inauguration of the Garfield monument at the Golden Gate Park, August 24, an occasion of great ceremony. It will be under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of Masons of California. The procession to the park will be one of the largest ever seen, comprising all the Knights Templar, Masons, Grand Army of the Republic, National Guards, United States troops, naval officers and all holding civil appointments.

Its Room Preferred to its Company.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 6.—Eight months ago John Gouton of Everson, while drinking water from a spring at West Overton, swallowed a small lizard. It often came up in his mouth, and gave him much trouble. On Friday he fasted for twenty-four hours, after which he ate a handful of salt, and lay down beside a pail of water. The lizard came up into his mouth. He closed his teeth on it, grasped it with his hand, and threw it to the ground. It was five inches long.

Flames Among Wooden Buildings.

BROCKTON, Mass., Aug. 7.—A serious fire occurred last night, originating in Hinkley's bowling alley near the corner of Main and Crescent streets. This was in the centre of a cluster of buildings which occupied a space of nearly an acre in extent. The buildings were of wood and the flames spread so rapidly that it was difficult to save any of the property. Four families had a narrow escape from being crushed by the falling roof. A number of business firms were burned out. The losses aggregate $35,000; insurance, $26,000.

Making Assignments.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Aug. 6.—The St. Albans trust company has also suspended, its president, Lawrence Brainerd, who was a heavy endorser on Barlow's paper, having made an assignment for the benefit of the trust company. Brainerd's property, which has been assigned, is valued at $500,000.

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—Brown Bros. & Co., lumber dealers and insurance agents of this city, have made an assignment. Their liabilities are $100,000, and their assets $50,000.

Peruna.

This medicine was introduced to the medical profession und the public at large by S. B. Hartman, M. D., in 1877, after he had prescribed it to over 40,000 patients in almost every disease to which flesh is heir.

It is wholly composed of numerous vegetable ingredients, each one of which is acknowledged by the medical profession to be the most potent of all the herbal remedies known to medical science.

But its great virtue is mainly attributable to the new and peculiar proportions in which the harmonious ingredients are combined, and to the extreme care exercised in its manufacture, using only the pure, active principles, and excluding all that is crude or irritating. No one should be without Peruna.

The State Debt of Vermont.

BURLINGTON, August 5.—Advance sheets of the State Treasurer's annual report show the entire debt to be $175,000, of which $135,000 is bonded. The receipts for the year were $583,600 and the disbursements $532,670.

Think it Over.

It will only cost you the postage on a letter to write to Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1109 Girard street, Philadelphia, and get their opinion of your case, if you are suffering from any form of disease which your physician has failed to cure, as consumption, neuralgia, catarrh, rheumatism, etc. State it clearly and they will answer promptly, honestly telling you, in view of all the conditions you state, whether they believe Compound Oxygen will do you any good. At the same time they will send you documents containing a history of the discovery of this remarkable substance and a large record of cures which have been made during the last thirteen years, from which you will be able to judge for yourself of its claim upon your confidence.

Hanlan Loses a Wager.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 5.—A wager of $200 a side between Hanlan, the champion oarsman, and a man named O'Brien of Excelsior, on Lake Minnetonka, that the latter could not take Plaisted's shell, deprived of its outriggers, and sit or stand in it and paddle around one minute without upsetting, was won by O'Brien, who managed the shell both sitting and standing.

VITAL STATISTICS.—It is shown by the report of health boards, and other authorized bodies, that diseases of the kidneys and bladder are largely on the increase; a sad fact, due perhaps to the foolish habit of drinking lager beer and other liquors, without knowing what they are made of. Is there a remedy? Decidedly yes. First, stop drinking. Second, use Hunt's Remedy—a potent and unfailing specific for kidneys, bladder, liver and urinary complaints. Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine, is endorsed by eminent physicians.

Sullivan and Slade.

NEW YORK, August 6.—John L. Sullivan knocked out Herbert A. Slade in a glove fight of three rounds fought last night in this place.

—Just as we predicted, Bellefonte's boss base ball pitcher, excelled Lock Haven's champion at the game which took place at Altoona on Monday, August 6.

—On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week the "Sixteeners" of the soldiers' orphan schools of Pennsylvania will hold their annual reunion in Altoona.

—The last Pennsylvania Railroad excursion to the sea shore for this season will go on Thursday, August 23. Tickets, good for ten days, will be sold for $7.65 from Tyrone.

—Nine members of the board of managers of the Y. M. C. A. met at the residence of F. Potts Green, Esq., on Tuesday evening, the 7th, transacting business and partaking of supper.

—On the second page of to-day's issue will be found a letter descriptive of Duluth, Minn,, and other cities, written by Mr. J. Willard Miller, late general secretary of the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A.

—Mr. M. Graham, the well known and popular Allegheny street barber, has been confined to his house with rheumatism for about a week past. We are glad to know that he is recovering.

—Mr. Henry Brockerhoff is in possession of the base ball used in the New York League-Altoona match on Monday, the 6th. It is very much battered, but will be a valuable memento of that interesting occasion.

—Judge Mayer made a narrow escape from serious injury while driving in Lock Haven on Tuesday, the 7th inst. His horse ran away and he was thrown from the buggy and dragged some distance. By presence of mind he extricated himself from his dangerous predicament.

—The local scribe of the Democrat indulged in a dream last Thursday in which he saw the Bellefonte Fencibles, a glorious array of citizen soldiery, marching to the depot to take the 5:45 a. m. train for the encampment. Verily, what pleasing dreams delight the morning slumbers of that enviable individual.

—William Fees, father of William and Charles Fees, of this place, fell from an excursion train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad on Monday morning, August 6, and was horribly mangled beneath the cars. He died soon after. His sons, who are employed in the glass works, started Tuesday, the 7th inst., to attend the funeral.

—Mr. H. B. Marshall, of Lock Haven, who was so seriously injured by having his left foot crushed under the car wheels on Tuesday, the 7th, at Tyrone, purchased an accident policy at the depot in the former city on Monday morning before leaving. This will give him $30 a week for 26 weeks, if necessary, or give his heirs $6,000 if death should occur.

—Now, says an authority on the subject, a base ball nine is to be organized in Bellefonte at once. A meeting for that purpose has been called and it is believed that there will yet be time to play some interesting games before the season closes. After a few days' practice they will issue a general challenge to play any nine in the country, and woe to that venturesome organization that dares to cross bats with them.

—Ever since work was commenced on the abutments of the Spring creek bridge large crowds have lingered near deeply interested in the proceedings. There are always several persons standing each side of this centre of attraction, examining into the details and endeavoring to derive enjoyment from the monotonous work. Monday of last week something occurred to repay them for their patient watch. In lifting a stone one of the four ropes supporting the derrick broke and down it fell into the waters of Spring creek. If any of the workmen had been under it they might have received severe injuries. It was again elevated to an upright position and work is progressing as before.

Base Ball in Altoona.

Monday, Aug. 6, was a great day in Altoona—especially with the sporting fraternity—but a very cold day for Altoona's crack base ball nine. What made it a chilly day for this club was the severe drubbing it received at the hands of the New York league nine after defeating so strong a nine as the Allegheny. Although a one-sided contest it was nevertheless an interesting one, and was watched closely throughout by the great audience present which numbered four thousand people. The New Yorkers arrived on the ground at 3 o'clock and were loudly cheered, showing that the crowd was a good-humored one. Game was called at 3:30, New York at the bat. Ewing, the first man to take up the ash, was given his base on balls, which was not a good beginning for Brown, and the faces of the Altoona people began to lengthen out. The visitors scored two runs in this inning and followed it with five more in the second, which completely demoralized the home club, leaving them without heart or hope. Brown, of whom so much was expected, failed to worry the league men in the least, while on the other hand, Ward's first ball, which flew over the plate like a bullet, unnerved the Altoonas from the start. Altoona's one run was made by Ardner, who struck for two bags, was advanced to third by Wood's base hit and made home on a passed ball by Clapp. The catching of Manlove behind the bat was much admired; Cox did good work at first base and Bradley captured a couple of long flies in left field, and also missed two that he should have had. The club needs strengthening at 2d and 3d base and practice in throwing to bases. The great feature of the game was the pitching of Ward, nothing like it having been seen before on the Altoona grounds, and the cheers which greeted him when he stepped into the box must have convinced him that the people of this section, where he is so well known, are as proud as ever of the great reputation he has won in the diamond field. As a matter of course the result of the contest was gratifying to the large number of Bellefonters who were present, who manifested their delight by the waving of hats and canes, and, yes, actually hugging each other; and it is said that a certain Bellefonte young man became so jubilant that he hugged an Altoona woman by mistake. The game occupied two hours and fifteen minutes, and the audience was so wrapped up in the proceedings that very few left their seats until the close of the last inning. No accidents occurred during the game and disputes and wrangling were happily missing. The New Yorks left the city at midnight for Philadelphia, where they play three games this week.

NOTES.

A number of Bellefonte ladies occupied seats in the grand stand, and seemed greatly interested in the game

Charles Heisler was carried away with Ward's pitching, and was obliged to cool off on base ball lemonade occasionally.

The fat man who stands up in front of you to view the field was quite numerous on the grand stand.

Bill Curtin assisted the police in keeping order in the enclosure, but made no arrests, we believe.

Al. Grow, the Lock Haven Journal man, surveyed the game from the upper tier of seats, but was not particularly pleased with the result. Al. is an admirer of Brown.

Joe Furey, of the Watchman, went up with the Bellefonte delegation, but fell in with a lot of jolly millionaires, and missed the game.

A News' representative found time to visit the Tribune office and make the accuaintance of Messrs. Dern and Swartz, courteous gentlemen and live journalists. We also had the pleasure of exchanging greeting with Mr. McLaughlin, of the reportorial staff, who gets up one of the most readable local pages to be found in any paper in the State. The latter will please accept thanks for editorial favors received.

—General James A. Beaver was present at the celebration of the battle of Bushy Run in Greensburg, Westmoreland county, on Monday, the 6th inst., and seemed to be the most notable person there. He was the principal speaker and when introduced was received with tremendous applause. He spoke for thirty minutes. His remarks were principally upon the result of the battle. It opened the course of civilization, it hurried industries and brought the country far ahead of what it would have been had not Bouquet been victorious. About 800 Grand Army men were then reviewed by Generals Beaver, Coulter and Gallagher. Fifteen thousand persons were present.

The "Eurekas"—A First-class Base Ball Organization.

On Wednesday afternoon a meeting of the admirers of base ball in Bellefonte met for the purpose of organizing permanently to be ready at all times and seasons to play a brilliant game. Considerable enthusiasm was manifested and perfect success rewarded their efforts. An organization was affected as follows:

Harry Green, manager.

D. DeWitt, 1st base and pitcher. Mr. D. is also captain.

T. Orbison, F. Garret and S. Harris to alternate as catcher and "center field."

J. Connor, short-stop.

H. Johnston and J. Hughes to alternate as pitcher and "right field."

E. McBride, 2d base.

S. Skean, 3d base.

H. Keller, "left field."

B. Powell, sponge holder and water carrier.

At last a nine which plays well together and is composed of excellent material, has been organized. It was decided to name the club the "Eureka" nine, which is quite appropriate. A game was played on the day of the organization with the best picked nine that could be found, which was decided in the Eureka's favor by a score of 12 to 1.

To make a creditable appearance and to do better work they are anxious to receive aid from the citizens. Balls and bats are absolutely necessary. A mask is one of the articles that are almost indispensable. Gloves and base ball shoes are important accessories, and uniforms would improve the appearance of the nine. Will not some liberal citizen show his natural pride in the town in which he lives by giving the boys the wherewith to purchase a splendid outfit?

Killed by a Kick from a Horse.

"B.," the News' correspondent at Vail station, informs us that on Saturevening, the 4th, Mr. Miles Beck and family of Warriorsmark met with a sad accident near Port Matilda which resulted in the death of their little daughter. While going in a buggy down hill en route for the residence of Mr. Spanogel, brother-in-law of Mr Beck, the holding back strap broke letting the buggy on the horse's heels, causing him to kick. The animal kicked the dashboard in, striking the little girl in the face. Then the horse fell down, the buggy passing over him. Rearing up viciously, the buggy and occupants were overturned on the ground, injuring all of the members of the party slightly. The little girl died from the injuries received from the kick, breathing her last at 11 o'clock Saturday night. She was conscious to the time of her death, recognizing her father and mother. The family have the sympathy of the community in the death of their little girl.

After overturning the buggy the horse ran off, breaking the vehicle to pieces.

—The electric light is not yet illuminating our streets, but the near approach of the time when its effulgent rays will dissipate the darkness of night occasions some curiosity regarding it among all sexes, classes and conditions of people. One fair lady of our acquaintance is strenuously opposed to it on the ground that it brings out freckles much more quickly and distinctly than the sun. We admit that this is an objection which will interfere with its general adoption by families who number many daughters among the members of their household. At night the fascinating but slightly freckled young lady is accustomed to appear to better advantage than on any other occasion, and the peculiar effect of electric light on the freckles question will probably crush it in the bud, if not sooner.

—On Tuesday a liveryman took two travelers in a buggy to Milesburg, one sitting on either side of him. On the way one of the travelers slyly changed two fine handkerchiefs from the liveryman's pocket to his own. The owner of the handkerchiefs did not expose his traveling companions until he reached Milesburg and several spectators had gathered around. Then he thrust his hand into his traveling companion's pocket and drew forth the handkerchiefs publicly reproving the fellow for acting the sneak thief in that manner.

Scalded to Death.

The death of little John T. Poorman, an eighteen-months-old son of Mr. Daniel Poorman, of Boggs township, resulted on Friday, the 3d, under distressing circumstances. It happened that the little fellow pulled a ladle containing scalding hot water from a table, emptying the liquid over his breast and injuring him severely. He lingered until Friday when death relieved him of his sufferings. The funeral took place on Saturday. The sad circumstance causes much sorrow.

Athletics vs. Actives.

The game of base ball on the commons near the planing mill pond on Tuesday, the 7th, was rather unsatisfactory to one of the nines participating and some ill feeling resulted from it, which we regret was the case, as the great National game has a very feeble and uncertain support in Bellefonte at best. We consider it expedient to give our readers only the composition of the nines without any reflections on the mode of conducting the game. They were composed as follows:

Athletics—S. Skean, captain and 2d base; H. Johnston, pitcher; T. Reeves, S. S.; S. Harris, catcher; H. Keller, 1st base; S. Hughes, 3d base; H. Ulman, L. F.; J. Montgomery, C. F.; B. Powell, R. F.

Actives—D. Shrom, captain and pitcher; T. Orbison, catcher; J. Connor, S. S., J. Elliott, 2d base; J. Smith; 3d base; E. Bradley, R. F.; E. Mcbride, 1st base; E. Snyder, L. F.; F. Rollins, C. F.

Johnston made the best score—seven runs and no outs.

Shenton was the umpire and the Athletics say that his decisions were impartial.

The score was 22 to 41 in favor of the Athletics.

Serious Accident to Mr. H. B. Marshall.

On Tuesday evening, the 7th inst., a distressing accident occurred at Tyrone, of which Mr. H. B. Marshall, who is well known in Bellefonte, was the victim. He, with other gentlemen, was standing on the platform near the track. The express train suddenly started and in some way Mr. Marshall fell. His left foot was crushed by the cars and amputation will probably be necessary.

Mr. Marshall was recently foreman of the Watchman office, this place, and has since been employed at Osceola. He is unmarried. We regret to learn of his misfortune and hope that the accident may be less serious than was at first reported.

LATER.

Mr. Joe Furey, of the Watchman, who was with Mr. Marshall when the accident occurred, came with him as far as Bellefonte on the 10 a. m. train next day, the injured man being made as comfortable as possible on an improvised bed in the car. He was taken to Lock Haven where he has friends. Mr. Furey says that when Mr. Marshall fell he was doubtless under the impression that he was under the car and tried to push himself out of harm's way with his feet. If he had not done this he would have escaped unhurt. There is a bare possibility that the injured foot may be saved.

Base Ball.

The game of base ball which was played by two home nines on Monday, the 6th inst., was interesting. F. Shenton and Q. Daniels acted as Captains of the respective nines which were composed as follows:

Shenton's—Shrom, Harris, McBride, Hughes, Reeves, Shenton, Carey, Bradley and Rawlin.

Daniels'—Dewitt, Johnston, Connor, Orbison, Smith, Snyder, Skean Daniels and Powell.

Two base hits each were made by Hughes, McBride and Harris of the Shenton nine, Skean, Orbison and Johnston of the Daniels nine each being credited with the same number.

Double plays were made by both Johnston and Powell of the Daniels nine.

The Shentons made numerous errors but did some fine playing.

The Daniels nine excelled in fine pitching and catching.

The score resulted 8 to 19 in favor the Daniels' nine.

—A party consisting of the Misses Musser, their cousins, the Misses Schoch, of Jersey Shore, Miss Wetzel and two brothers and J. Nevin Klein went to view the beauties of the Eagle's Nest a few days ago. They arrived in safety and were drinking in the beauties of the romantic scenery to their deepest depth, when a storm of wind and rain came up. They had only one umbrella among them and as it was a physicial impossibility for that solitary instrument of shelter to afford all of them protection from the storm they surrendered it to one member of the party, Mr. Oscar Wetzel, and the others nestled beneath the extending boughs of a kindly oak. The entire party succeeded in keeping their powder dry, including the gallant young man under the umbrella and when the elements were calm again they retraced their steps homeward, greatly pleased with the trip.

—The derrick erected at the High street bridge fell the second time on Wednesday, but fortunately did not injure anybody. We hope it will be put up in a more substantial manner this time as it probably will not fall very often without killing somebody.

The Knights Templar Excursion.

A few of the members of Constans Commandry, Knights Templar of Bellefonte, have already started to the National encampment in California, but the larger part of the commandery will go in about a week from this date in style which bids fair to "startle the natives." They will have a special train of Pullman cars at their service, including a dining room car, sitting room car, sleepers, and every conceivable convenience. Cooks, porters and servants of all descriptions will accompany the excursion. While in San Francisco they will make their home at the Palace Hotel and on the home trip will stop long enough to make a tour of the famous Yosemite Valley. The excursion will consume about a month and will be one of the most enjoyable ever planned. These gallant Sir Knights seem to have made arrangements to conduct all the details of the tour in the most elaborate style, and need only the addition of a News reporter to their company to render the trip truly recherche, for unless their movements are duly reported to the admiring populace which they leave behind at least half of its grandeur will be wasted.

—The Watkins and Niagara excursion promises to be a very large one. Such remarkably low rates were never before offered to the public, and should be taken advantage of by everyone who desires to take an enjoyable trip and can spend the time to do so. In regard to the "entertainment ticket," we would state that the addition of hack fare to the other "extras" will increase the price of the same from $7.00 to $8.00, making the entire expenses of the trip $15.20, including car fare. These figures, it should be understood, are given only for the three-day's trip. Parties who desire to remain longer, however, will receive the benefit of the special hotel rates. Send in your names.

Death of Mrs. Shadrach Steffy.

Last Thursday a life terminated at Pine Grove Mills which had long been suspended as it were upon a single thread. We refer to Mrs. Shadrach Steffy, who expired after a lingering and extremely prostrating illness.

She was a lady of over fifty years of age and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She reared quite a large family of children, all of whom were married except one son.

Why the Doctor was Disgusted and what Might have been Done without Him.

"Well, wife," said Dr. E——, as he entered his house, which was situated in a cosy village in New York, "I have got back from a long and dreary ride away down among the mountains, and all to no purpose whatever. The messenger said the man wouldn't live till morning, when the fact is he had only an ordinary attack of colic. If the simpletons had only had sense enough to put a BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER on his stomach he would have been all right in an hour or two. But some folks are slow to learn," added the old physician, swallowing the cup of steaming tea which his wife had just poured for him.

Doctor E—— was right, yet people do learn, even though slowly. The rapidly increasing use of Benson's plaster proves this beyond question, and the good doctors are certain to be saved much of their needless toil. In all cases capable of being affected by a plaster Benson's acts efficiently and at once. The genuine have the word CAPCINE cut in the centre. Price 25 cents.

Notice.

Our collector and solicitor, Mr. A. B. Steele, will visit within the next two weeks Fillmore, Benore, Buffalo Run, Stormstown, Loveville and Guyer. We hope our friends will be ready to receive him.

—Mr. Emanuel Smith, of Centre Hall, is suffering from a stroke of paralysis.

—Thomas Shaughensey is still at work compelling property owners to repair their pavements.

—Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. James Woods were held on Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m.

—The temporary bridge structure across Spring creek has been partially removed, preventing passage over it.

—The foot ball is vigorously kicked during the twilight hours on Spring street near the Presbyterian church.

—Mr. David Butts is erecting a house on the extreme eastern end of Linn street for Mrs. Armor and daughters.

—A resident of Lamb street came home in quite a boozy condition on Thursday night disturbing the slumbers of several people.

—In answer to an inquiry, we would state that Atlantic City is in the State of New Jersey. It is surrounded by the Atlantic ocean and Absecon inlet.

—Mr. Thomas W. Bollinger died at his home in Philipsburg on the 1st day of August. He was in the 30th year of his age. He was born at Rock Spring, this county, on November 15, 1853.

—Some of the young ladies in town have taken to wearing their watches outside the pocket, allowing them to dangle in front like a padlock on a post. This must be a fresh outbreak of "dudeism."

—A party of gypsies in three large and commodious conveyances passed through town last Friday on their way to Union county. They traveled in considerable style and looked fat, good-natured and comfortable.

—W. F. Reeder, Esq., has purchased the elegant house on Allegheny street formerly owned and now occupied by Mr. Charles McCafferty. Mr. McCafferty will erect a fine stone residence on the corner of Curtin and Spring streets.

—We are telephoned that the Howard Band festival on Saturday and Friday nights was the means of replenishing the treasury of that organization to the amount of $360. That takes the cake. We congratulate the band on the result.

—Mr. Hammon Sechler is erecting a structure on the public school grounds which will be used as a private school. It is located on the southwestern corner of the grounds at the intersection of Spring and Lamb streets, a small space being fenced off for a play ground. It is frame and of quite limited dimensions.

—The location of Camp Van Horn is said to be singularly beautiful and desirable for such a purpose. It is not far from the city of Erie. The soldiers will remain ten days. The entire brigade, five regiments, will be in camp and be reviewed by General James A. Beaver on Monday and by Governor Pattison on the Monday following.

—The Centre County Sunday-school Association will hold its annual convention in the Presbyterian church at Spring Mills on Thursday, August 23. Each Sunday-school is requested to send two delegates and if possible one of these should be the superintendent. Delegates should forward their names to Prof. D. M. Wolf, Spring Mills, to secure entertainment.

—Among those who aided in making the Howard Cornet Band festival a success we mention Miss Lula Hensyl, who collected $66 and secured the necklace, and Miss Alice Koons, of Eagleville, who collected $56 and was presented with a necklace. Mr. B. Weber collected $65 and took the chair over his competitor, Mr. W. R. Hopkins, who collected $17. Mr. H. A. Moore took the cake with a ring in it.

—John Bartruff, the carriage maker, turned out a handsome two-horse platform spring wagon from his establishment on Wednesday. The vehicle was built for Mr. E. C. Decker, of Renovo, general produce merchant. This is the third wagon Mr. Bartruff has put up for Mr. Decker, which shows that he has a good deal of condence in the work turned out at the Bartruff manufactory. The wagon is substantially built, and tastefully painted, and warranted to give entire satisfaction.

Buried in a Lime Kiln—Two Men Seriously Injured On Thursday Afternoon.

Alexander's extensive lime kilns, north of the borough, were the scene of an exciting and painful accident on Thursday afternoon which might have been terribly fatal in its consequences. One of our well known citizens, Mr. John McDermott, was at work in one of the kilns rebuilding the fire-brick wall which had then been erected to quite a high elevation. He is an experienced and careful workman, having been employed in the building several years. He had been at work on the wall about twelve days, and being anxious to finish it, an assistant was secured in the person of Oberti Giusepe, an Italian, who went to work Thursday for the first time. About 4 o'clock p. m., as Mr. McDermott was moving a brick in the second, or red brick wall, the sides of the wall, which were old and dry, settled in around the two men, fastening them tightly and firmly as in a vise. With the wall came a huge quantity of stone used for packing. The noise made by the falling walls was very great and the cries of the men were heard from within. Men working in the quarry back of the kilns and also employes from Morris' lime kilns across the creek came to their assistance and an immense throng of people from the town hastened excitedly to the kilns, the rumor being that two men were killed outright. The suffering men were soon extricated, Mr. McDermott first from the south side of the kiln and then the Italian from the north side. They were painfully squeezd and sore, and bruised on all parts of their bodies; but that experienced and careful surgeon, Dr. George F. Harris, although he examined them carefully, could not detect any broken bones, and announced that if no internal injuries had been received their condition was not at all dangerous. The men were weak, limp and powerless after their trying experience and when the the reaction had set in, neither of them gave evidence that they were suffering much pain. Mr. McDermott complained most of his back and Oberti Giusepe's left arm and shoulder seemed to have sustained the greatest injuries. When our reporter visited the men the Italian was suffering considerable pain, but Mr. McDermott, who is quite an old man, was sleeping soundly. The latter lives on Bishop street and the former is at the Cummings House on the same thoroughfare.

It is said that all danger would have been averted had Mr. McDermott taken the usual precautionary measures for supporting the red brick wall while he was building the inner one. The few boards which he did use as supports seemed to protect the men from the heavy stones. Fortunately, owing to the men's elevated position the stones did not fall with great force on their heads. About two tons of stones and bricks were removed before the men were extricated.

A Brilliant Ball at the Bush House.

On Thursday night the parlors of the Bush House were the scene of the most brilliant hop ever given in connection with that grand hotel. The attendance was very large consisting of the elite of Bellefonte society and numerous ladies and gentlemen from a distance. Many of the toilets worn by the ladies were elegant in the extreme. We shall not attempt to enumerate the names of the Bellefonte ladies and gentlemen who graced the occasion by their presence. Among the ladies whom we noticed from a distance were Miss Bailey, of Hollidaysburg; Miss Tome, of Jersey Shore; Miss Bond, of Baltimore; Miss Cooper, of New York; Miss Moir, of Consbohocken; Miss Fleming, of Sewickly; Mrs. Merrill, of Philadelphia; Miss Frasier, of New York; Mrs. Disbrow, of Lock Haven, and Miss d'Invilliers, of Philadephia.

Among the gentlemen were Dr. Bond and Mr. Owens, of Baltimore; Messrs. MacBride and Ferries, of Philadelphia; Mr. Ferries, of Sunbury; Messrs. Sargent, Blumer, Gillman, Lindstrom and Mewdershall, of Altoona; Mr. Blair, of Hollidaysburg; Mr. Davids, of Philadelphia; Dr. Carey and Mr. Williams, of Baltimore; Mr. Dale, of Butler, and Mr. Fry, of Lock Haven.

Music of the finest description was given by Prof. Young's orchestra of Lock Haven. The committee of arrangements—Messrs. Chas. Valentine and Jack Dale—were very successful in their efforts to make the occasion a gratifying success, and in connection with Mr. W. R. Teller, are to be congratulated on the result.

—On Friday at 4 o'clock telephone connection was completed with Lock Haven, Williamsport, Sunbury, Milton, Northumberland, Bloomsburg and other places. This will doubtless be found of great value to many business men.

A Clerical Nimrod.

A few days ago a well known clergyman of this place walked lightly along Allegheny street carrying in true sportsman's style ten very fine woodcocks, which attracted the admiring attention of all the embroyo Nimrods who saw them.

"That's the way to bring game home?" he exclaimed triumphantly to a friend whom he knew to be also interested in such sport.

"Where did you get them? How long were you hunting?" were the immediate interrogatories.

The clergyman obligingly told the place and time, the latter being only a few hours.

"Well," soliloquized the hunter after the clergyman had passed on, "If he shot ten woodcocks in that short time surely I can shoot many more in a whole day. Accordingly, the hunter, accompanied by several others as eager for game as himself, went in the direction indicated by the clergyman. He was as fortunate as usual, but not nearly so successful as the clergyman, and as he had considerable confidence in his own skill he couldn't account for it. Meeting a farmer, he asked that individual if he remembered the gentleman who shot ten woodcocks in that vicinity a few days before.

"No," he said; "don't believe he shot that many. But about that time there was a party of four or five gentlemen in this direction. One of them looked like a minister. He shot one woodcock and other members of the party shot a few. Altogether they wouldn't make more than ten."

The hunter then understood how it was, and he still believes the clergyman obtained possession of all the woodcocks shot by the entire party and then tried to palm them off on credulous individuals as trophies of his own skill.

A Business Man Speaks Out.

[Communicated.]

MR. EDITOR—Dear Sir: There seems to be considerable praise given Mr. Wallace in Democratic journals for his original ideas of a new law to benefit wagemen or workmen, called arbitration to settle disputes. Consistent with his record, originality don't belong to him. This law or principal embodied in it has been in force in France for many years, say from the year 1844. An appeal from the law lies in the "Tribunal de Commerce." This law was advocated in England in 1850. I would ask Mr. Wallace and his Democratic free trade followers to keep on borrowing French brains until they imbibe some of their Protection ideas. The Cobdon Club they, as Frenchmen, have no use for.

I drop you these few lines to say I never in all my life have felt so much like disputing every inch of ground with our country's oppressors as I do now. May the all-wise Providence be on our side; let us for the benefit of the "poor" in our lovely land implore His assistance to guide and direct us to victory over our opponents.

We must get rid of all hangers on and dishonest officials. Nominate no man for an office who is not competent and of good character. It has been the custom to nominate men of learning, paying no respect to character. Reverse this and we will be taking a step to victory. I believe there can be no good come out of copartnership with the "Devil" in any manner, shape or form. But this I will say: If the liquor men follow us in the rear let them alone—don't turn around and throw stones at them. If the Devil sends you money to build a church to God, I say there is hope even for the Devil. Good bye.

Very respectfully. REPUBLICAN

Eagleville Echoes.

EAGLEVILLE August 10, 1883.

MR. EDITOR: The "corner" was rendered very interesting on last Saturday night by two brisk fights. Chewing of fingers, battering of pates and using government language were among the incidents of the occasion.

An infant daughter appeared at the house of H. W. Ridge on Monday morning. Henry is up the river. We trust the news will be broken to him gradually as he is somewhat excitable.

Italians have recently been committing some very gross indignities for which they should be punished.

The pool room of A. Graham seems to be the centre of considerable attraction.

Our town has stepped to the front in the cultivation of instrumental music. Every instrument may be heard from a costly piano down to a chestnut whistle. When I awake at night a variety of musical notes salute my ear—from a coarse bass drum to the squeaking notes of an Italian bagpipe. LATROBE.

—Mrs. Green Heaton, a lady living a short distance beyond the Boiling Spring, was found dead in bed Friday morning. We have not learned the cause of her sudden decease.

Terrific fight with a Snake.

On Friday morning Mr. Farries, of Sunbury, who is the guest of Mr. Charley Valentine, was wandering through the spacious grounds which surround Mr. Robert Valentine's elegant and palatial home. Suddenly his attention was arrested by an ominous and terrifying sound and from a thicket to his left a huge snake quickly emerged, which, rearing itself up before him, impeded his progress. He had read tales about beautiful maidens being turned into loathsome snakes and doomed to crawl until a gallant knight should come along to liberate them by deeds of valor, but he did not have an idea that the monster before him was one of that kind. He went to work with sticks, stones and other convenient instruments of snake warfare and in the space of two hours he succeeded in dispatching his snakeship. The temperature was quite high and beads of persperation bedewed his intellectual and lofty brow. He sank down upon the cool, green sward to secure the grateful rest which can be enjoyed so thoroughly by those who are brave. While resting he made a mental observation of the snake's proportions when, lo! to his surprise it did not seem to be over half a foot long. He secured a tape line and made an accurate measurement finding it to be exactly 4¼ inches in length! It was one of the garter species. Could it be that he magnified the size of that snake in the hour of excitement? Had he really expended all this force and energy on so insignificant a varment? It is a consolation to know that in the years yet to come there may be other and better opportunities for him to distinguish himself.

—The M. E. church, at Pleasant Gap, which is now we understand entirely free from debt, will be dedicated to the service of God on Sunday, August 26, the dedicatory service to be held at 10:30 a. m. Rev. E. J. Gray, D.D., President of Dickinson Seminary at Williamsport, and known as the most famous church dedicator in this part of the State, has consented to be present. Rev. Geo. D. Penepacker, of this place, and Rev. Mattern will also assist. The occasion will be very interesting and all are invited to attend. A service will also be held in the church in the evening at 7½ o'clock. In this connection, we desire to express the gratitude of the congregation to many persons at Pleasant Gap and in Bellefonte who so kindly aided in defraying the debt which at one time seemed to be a burden beneath which they would succumb. A more extended notice of this work will be given soon.

—The members of Company B, N. G., to the number of 45, have now arrived at their destination at Conneaut Lake. They marched to the train in imposing array and entered the two cars which were waiting for their reception. They were in the most buoyant and happy frame of mind, anticipating a pleasant encampment. The last glance we had of them was when the regular 5 o'clock train was pulled rapidly out of this place on Thursday afternoon. They are going to get a taste of military life with the blood and carnage omitted. If the weather continues fine and the discipline is not too strict, and rides on the lake are permitted as well as occasional excursions to the nearest towns and cities to see the girls who so much admire the "boys in blue,"—if all these circumstances, we say, are satisfactory to them we doubt not the encampment will be enjoyable.

—A frame dwelling house located on the south side of Bishop street—formerly known as the Manassas property and now owned by St. John's Roman Catholic church—is being torn down and in a very few days will be leveled to the ground. Then the building which has been used as a day school, under the control of the same church, will meet a similar fate. The two lots will be converted into one large enclosure, a deep foundation will be dug and in the course of time a stately stone structure to be used as a Catholic church will rise on the site. The plans of the edifice are not yet completed, but the dimensions will be something like 112x56 feet.

—Our editorial friend, B. O. Deininger, of the Millheim Journal, is always inventing some scheme for increasing his bank account. His latest effort in this direction is the introduction of a new blank book styled the "Ready Reference Tax Receipt Book," a copy of which we have received through the courtsey of Mr. Deininger. The "Ready Reference" is a very useful book, conveniently arranged and neatly bound. It should be in the possession of every taxable citizen, and will no doubt have an extensive sale.

—Potter township will have no jurors at the August court.

From Kingston we harbor Miss
Rosa B. Moir,
(She's staying in town.)
Yes, she came from historic Wyoming.
Stop as you pass Mr. G. W's door
He's very well known.
Nothing could be more becoming.

Mr J. H. Bauland, of Chicago, who has been spending several days among his Bellefonte friends, bade them farewell Wednesday afternoon and departed for New York City, where he will transact business in the interest of his large wholesale store in Chicago.

Mr. Addison Randall is not the only well known person who will sever his connection with his present position to take part in the forthcoming sensation, "Grizette and Student Comedy." J. Miles Walker, commissioners' clerk, thinks he will find a bonanza if he takes the position of ticket agent with the troupe and will accordingly leave a vacancy in the office of clerk for the commissioners. Applicants should apply early at the commissioners' office.

Miss Rebecca Heverly, of Chicago, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

Miss Sallie Burnside is spending a few day with friends at the sea shore.

Mrs. Pensinger, of Chambersburg, is visiting her sister, Mrs. R. A. Laird.

The guests now enlivening the home of Mr. Robert Valentine are Miss Carey, Dr. Bond and Mr. Owen, all of Baltimore. The presence of Miss Carey is particularly enjoyable, as she is one of the most accomplished and pleasing young ladies of the Monumental City, which, as travelers are aware, excells all the cities of the United States, except New Orleans, in that respect.

Mr. Addison Randall, the popular agent for the Columbia Bridge Co., of Dayton, Ohio, is about severing his connection with that company to accept a more lucrative position offered him by the general manager of the "Grizette and Student Comedy," which Mr. Randall says will be in this place during the next winter season. Mr. Randall having had considerable experience in the part which he will be required to perform, will certainly attain an enviable reputation as a comedian. Judge Schyler, of Lock Haven, is financial manager of the Comedy and it will therefore be a grand success.

Conroy—Jennings.

Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock Mr. James Conroy was united in matrimony to Miss Mary Jennings in the Catholic church by Rev. Father McArdle. The groom is an employe of the Bellefonte Glass Works, and the bride is a very popular and pleasing young lady. We wish them joy.

Mr. and Mrs. Conroy departed on the 10 a. m. train to-day for New York and then to the sea shore. They will also tarry some time at Jackson, N. J., the home of the groom's relatives. It is appropriate to state in connection with this happy event that the bride and groom rode to and from the church in Garman's beautiful hack, which is the most elegant conveyance in this vicinity and is brought out only on occasions of extraordinary importance.

Death of Mrs. James Woods.

We are called upon to record the death of Mrs. James Woods, which occurred Friday morning at her home two miles from town. She had been ill since Saturday, August 4. Her husband and nine children survive her. Mrs. W. C. Heinle, of this place, is a daughter of the deceased. Mrs. Woods was over seventy years of age. Her death is sincerely lamented.

—Comparatively fair market Saturday morning.
